Yet another fully moving on.

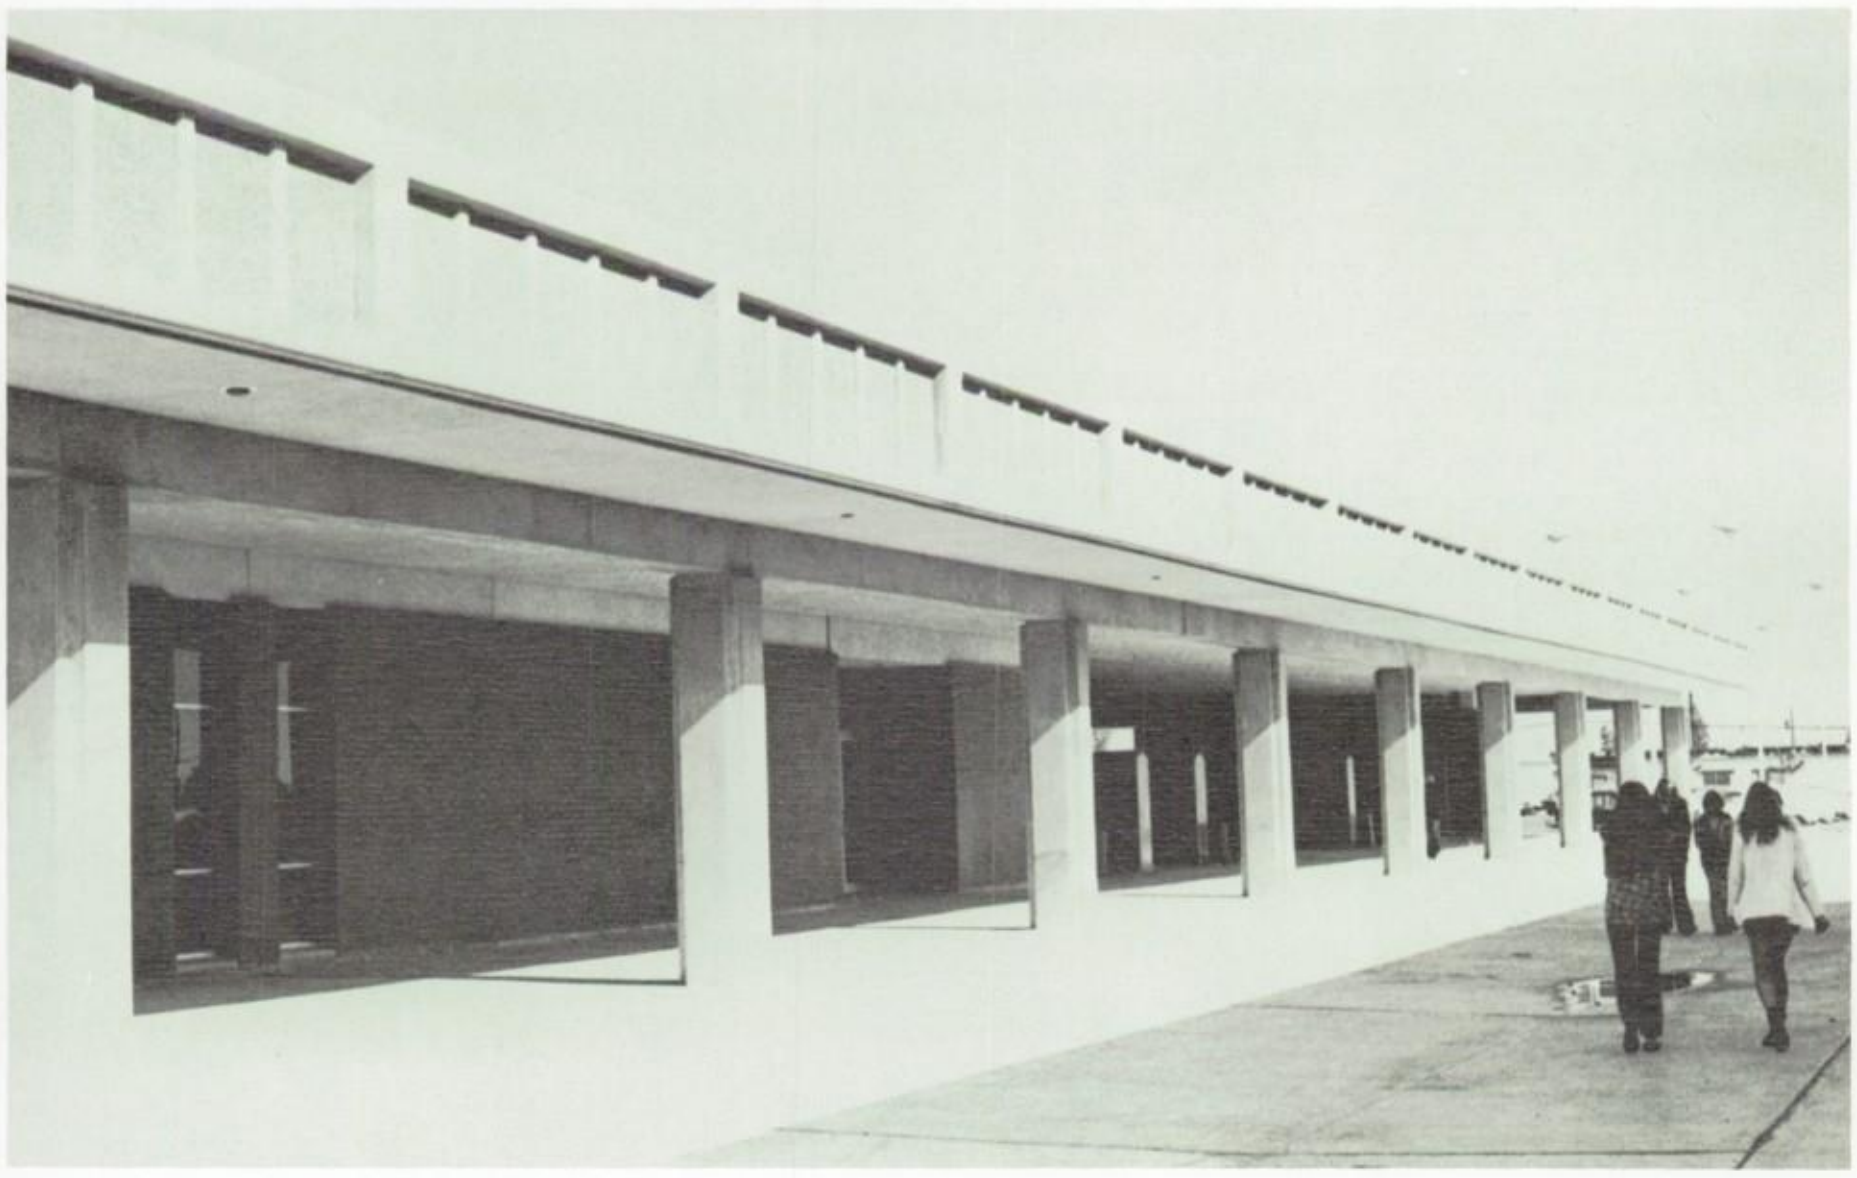
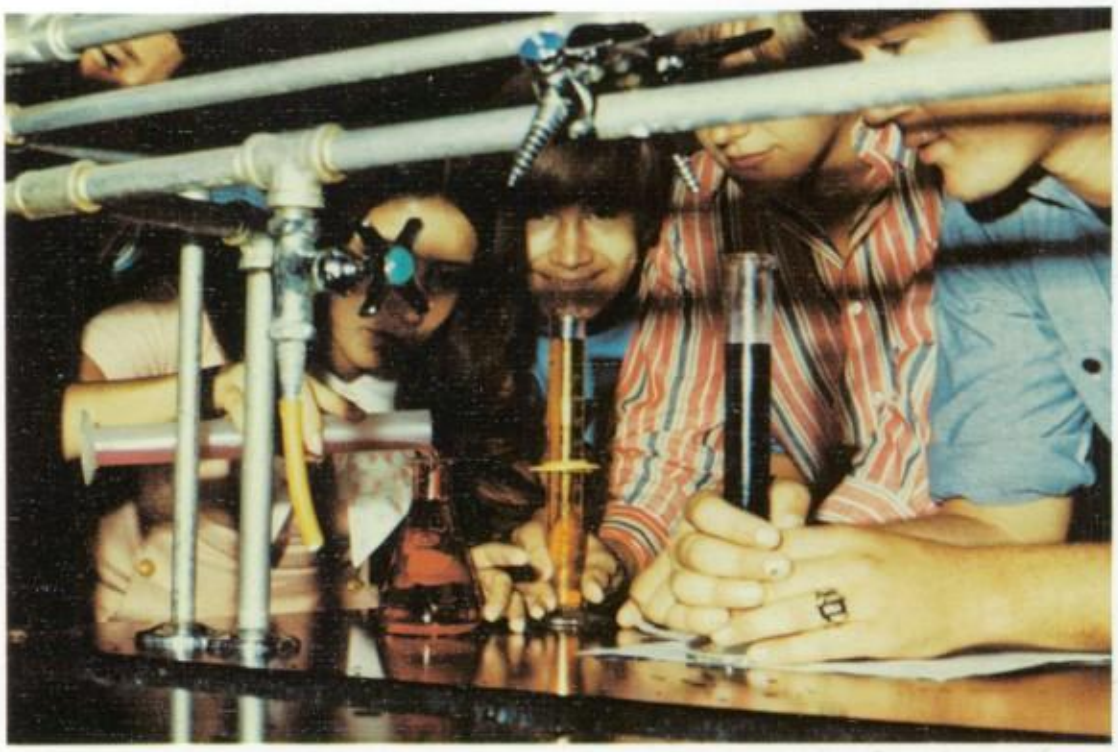
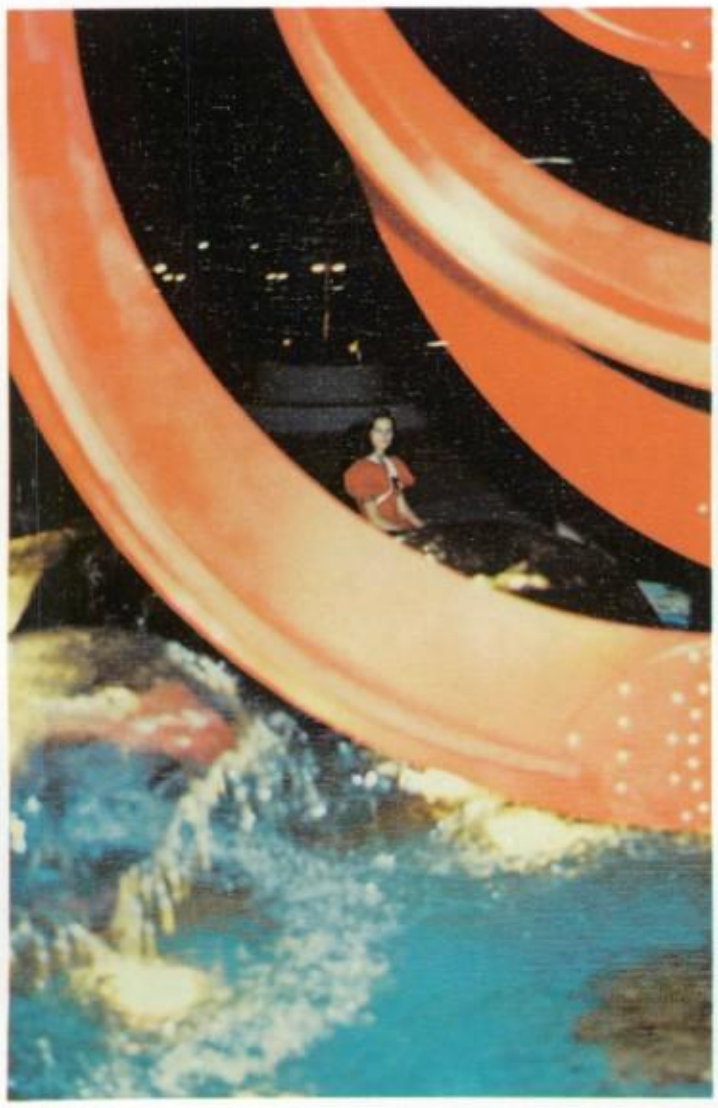
We said good-bye to a dear friend
Yet he will follow us everywhere;
Those years now sweet memories
But, memories that will always be there.
We now welcome a new friend to lead us.



Artists, athletes, college and work bound
Now must unite in one battle:
The battle to survive in an
Unyielding, overcomplicated world.

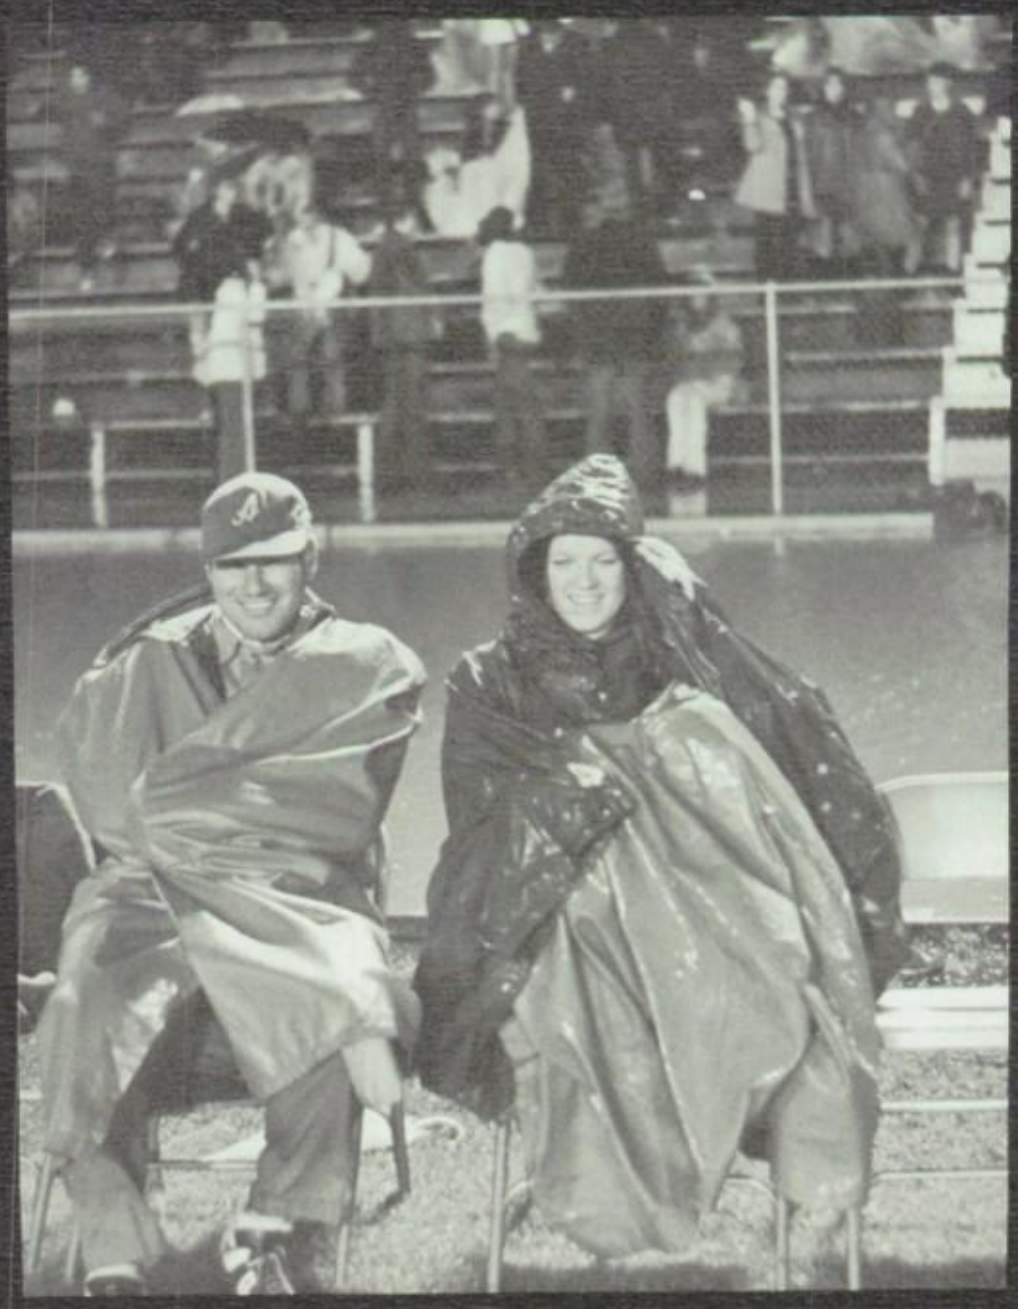




We who are determined to do better,
Let us take our vows never to fail.
For a bigger job we do now undertake
To ease the journey for those who trail.

Student Life

A Better World Through Involvement



World of events highlights homecoming

This years homecoming theme was "The Good Old Days" and every class did a good job of portraying it in their floats. First place was taken by the sophomores with the float of the Ice Cream Parlor. Second place was the U.S.S. Goodwin by the juniors. The seniors captured third place with the float of the Pop Shoppe and freshmen with their float of Bonny and Clyde.

One of the strangest events of Homecoming was the Goldfish Swallowing Contest. Juniors won the contest.

ABOVE: After couragiously gobbling down pounds of pancakes at the Pancake Eating Contest one student who tried, looks very hopeful. BELOW: You can see the terrific excitement of the Pyramid of Classes Contest as shown in the faces of this gang of Seniors.

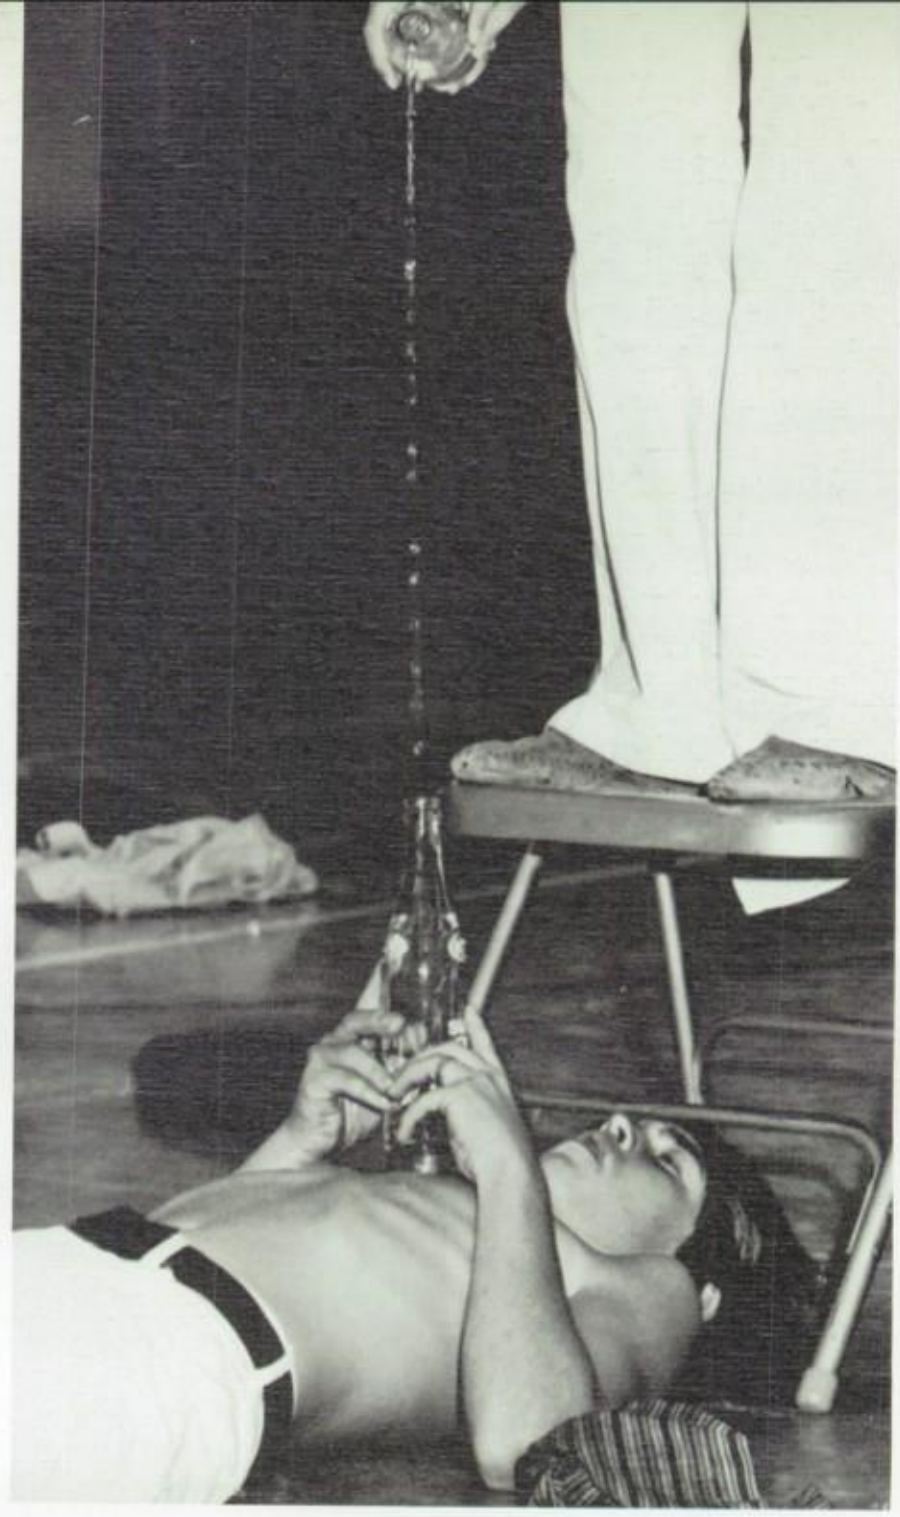
Pumpkin carving can become as artistic a sport as ballet, especially when the brave students doing the carving are competing for points.



In the Ice Water Contest pop bottles were filled with water and ice, and then students tried their luck at aiming water drops.

One of the larger activities of Homecoming Week was the construction of the Malt Shop. The Malt Shop was used at the Dance after the game against West. It came in handy to Alhambra students after the thrust bug game bugging.

AHS pom line keep spirit rolling

This years Pom line is perhaps the best group of girls Alhambra has had. Besides performing the routines to almost complete perfection the Poms did an excellent showing at camp this summer. The girls got top honors in all phases of competition.

As in previous years, the girls continued to serve the football team punch after the games and practice, and they also have the responsibility of decorating the locker room before the games.

This years captain was Debbie Salmon. This is the second year of being on the Pom line for Debbie.

Taking a break from performing at the 1972 State Fair are Robin Chmelar, Darilyn Rowan, and Marianne Paul. The girls did a good showing for Alhambra.

Rhonda Dean is doing one of the more famous routines. Rhonda is a newer member.

Cheers take spirit stick for third year in row

One of the largest spirit motives that Alhambra has is the AHS Cheerleaders. The Cheers won the highest honors offered at camp this summer.

This year the girls of the Cheers were awarded the great honor of having three of the Cheers winning positions as Homecoming Attendents and including Denora Denver being picked as Queen.

The girls had very busy schedules including the jobs of decorating the locker rooms and serving punch to the football and basketball teams of Alhambra. To keep their pocketbook fat the girls had several moneymaking activities.

Susan Harris leads majorettes again

The Majorettes are the girls who entertain the Lion fans at pep assemblies, home football and basketball games. They do a fine show of baton twirling to the music of Alhambra's band. They are an important part of the explosive halftime performance. This year the girls were doing such things as performing at the state fair, and any other assembly the school has.

Susan Harris is the Captain of the Majorettes this year. The girls are under the direction of Mr. Lebs. The other girls in the Majorettes were Rita McLaughlin, a senior, Sally Hower and Sharon Trollinger, Sophomores, and Kathy Rockenfield also a sophomore. This is Kathy's first year.

This year the Majorettes got to go to the arizona state fair. Shown here is Sharon Trollinger performing for the crowd.

In many of the routines the girls do there is alot of throwing and catching of the baton. It isn't as easy as it looks!

Expression comes easy to modern dance classes

Last year Modern Dance classes expanded to three different levels of dance: Beginning, Advanced Dance, and Performance.

The girls had several things scheduled for last year. The first was performing at the Christmas assemblies and they participated in performances at KTVK Channel 3. The girls attended a symposium at ASU and they also received guest lessons from former Alhambra dance students. Teaching techniques were to be taught at a playday that was planned.

The main highlight of the girls was a Modern Dance Concert held on April 13, 1973, which was their money making project. The money was used to purchase leotards, costumes and to take a field trip to the Maurice Bejart dance concert at Grady Gammage in May.

Wet weather dampens Rodeo spirit

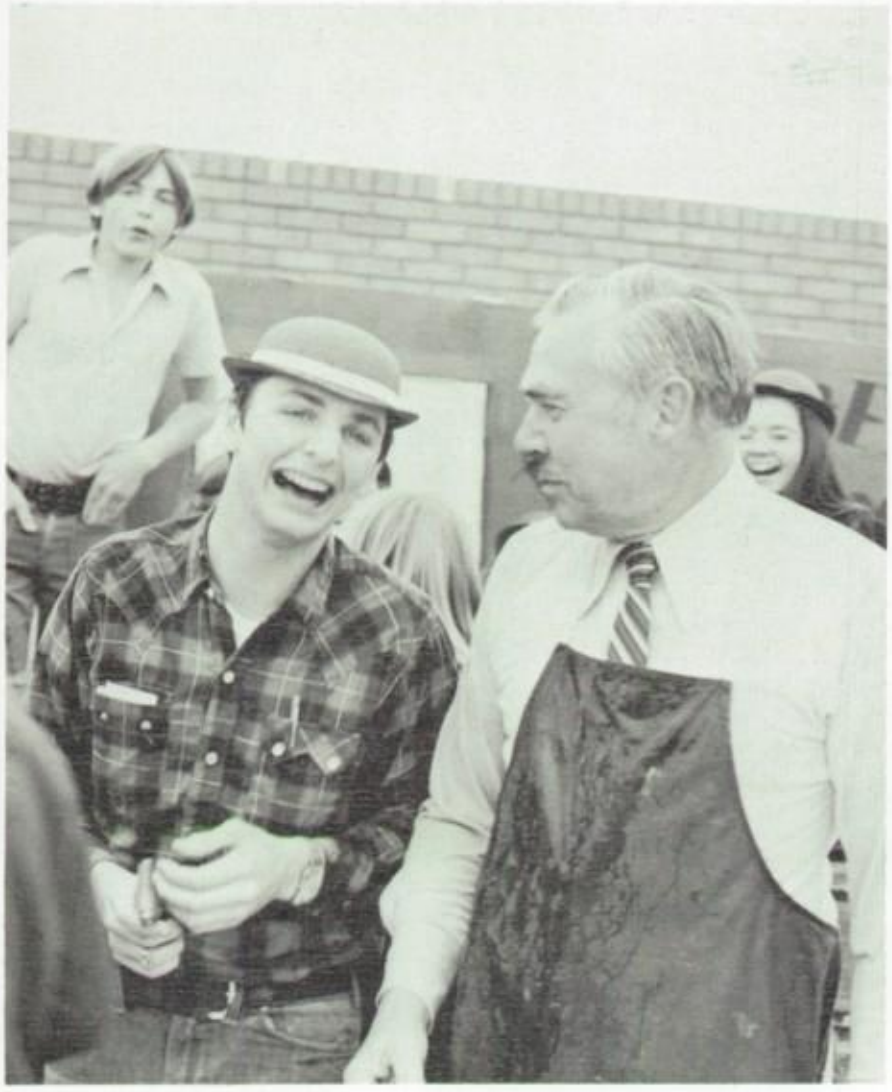
Under the new policies established at Alhambra, Rodeo Week began somewhat slowly. The Rodeo spirit was almost lost at Alhambra, but the vicious villain running around campus snatching victims instilled new hope.

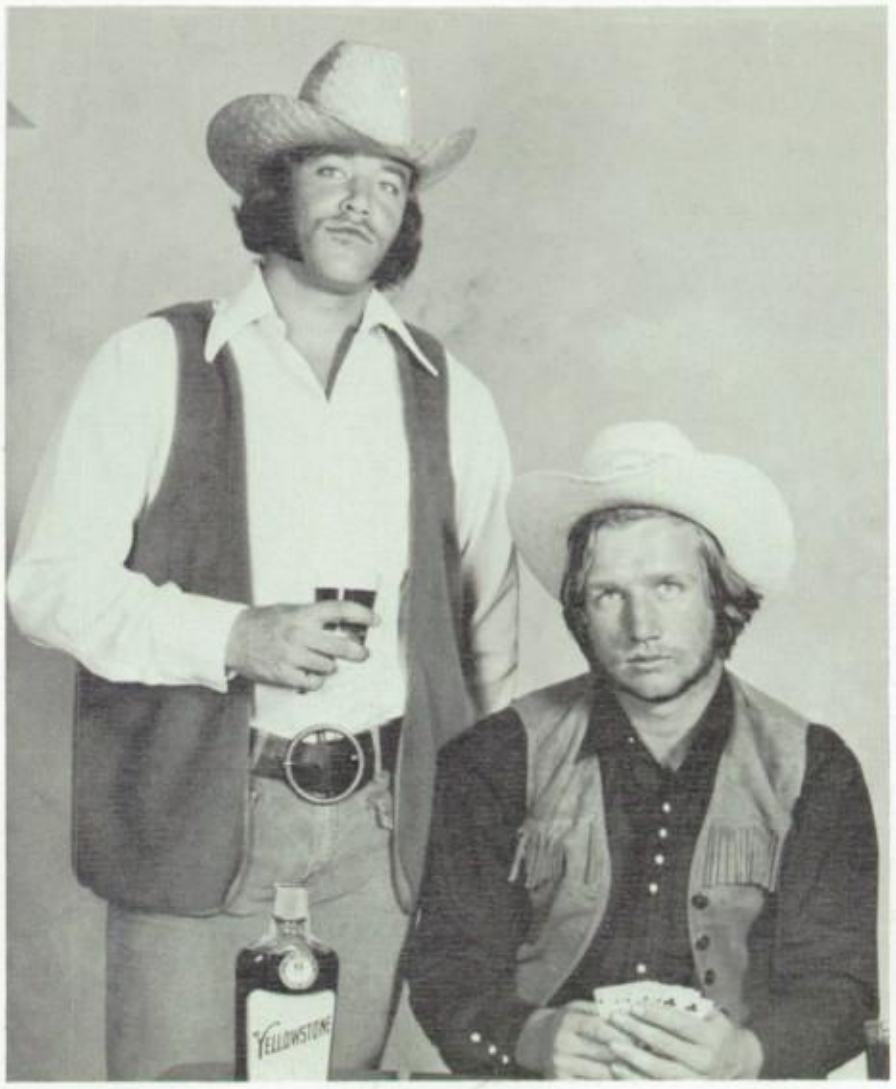
A few changes were made in Rodeo Week activities. There was no Rodeo Assembly and students received no penalty for not dressing in western clothes.

During the week of March 12-16, the area down by the snack bar turned into a little city of its own, "full of bustling activity." The city consisted of a popcorn stand and the Find a Friend Saloon, all of which drew crowds during the noon hours.

Another activity held during Alhambra's Rodeo week was the hairy legs contest. These are some of the brave representatives who appeared at the contest. Volunteers from each class displayed their own hairy legs for everyone at Alhambra High to see.

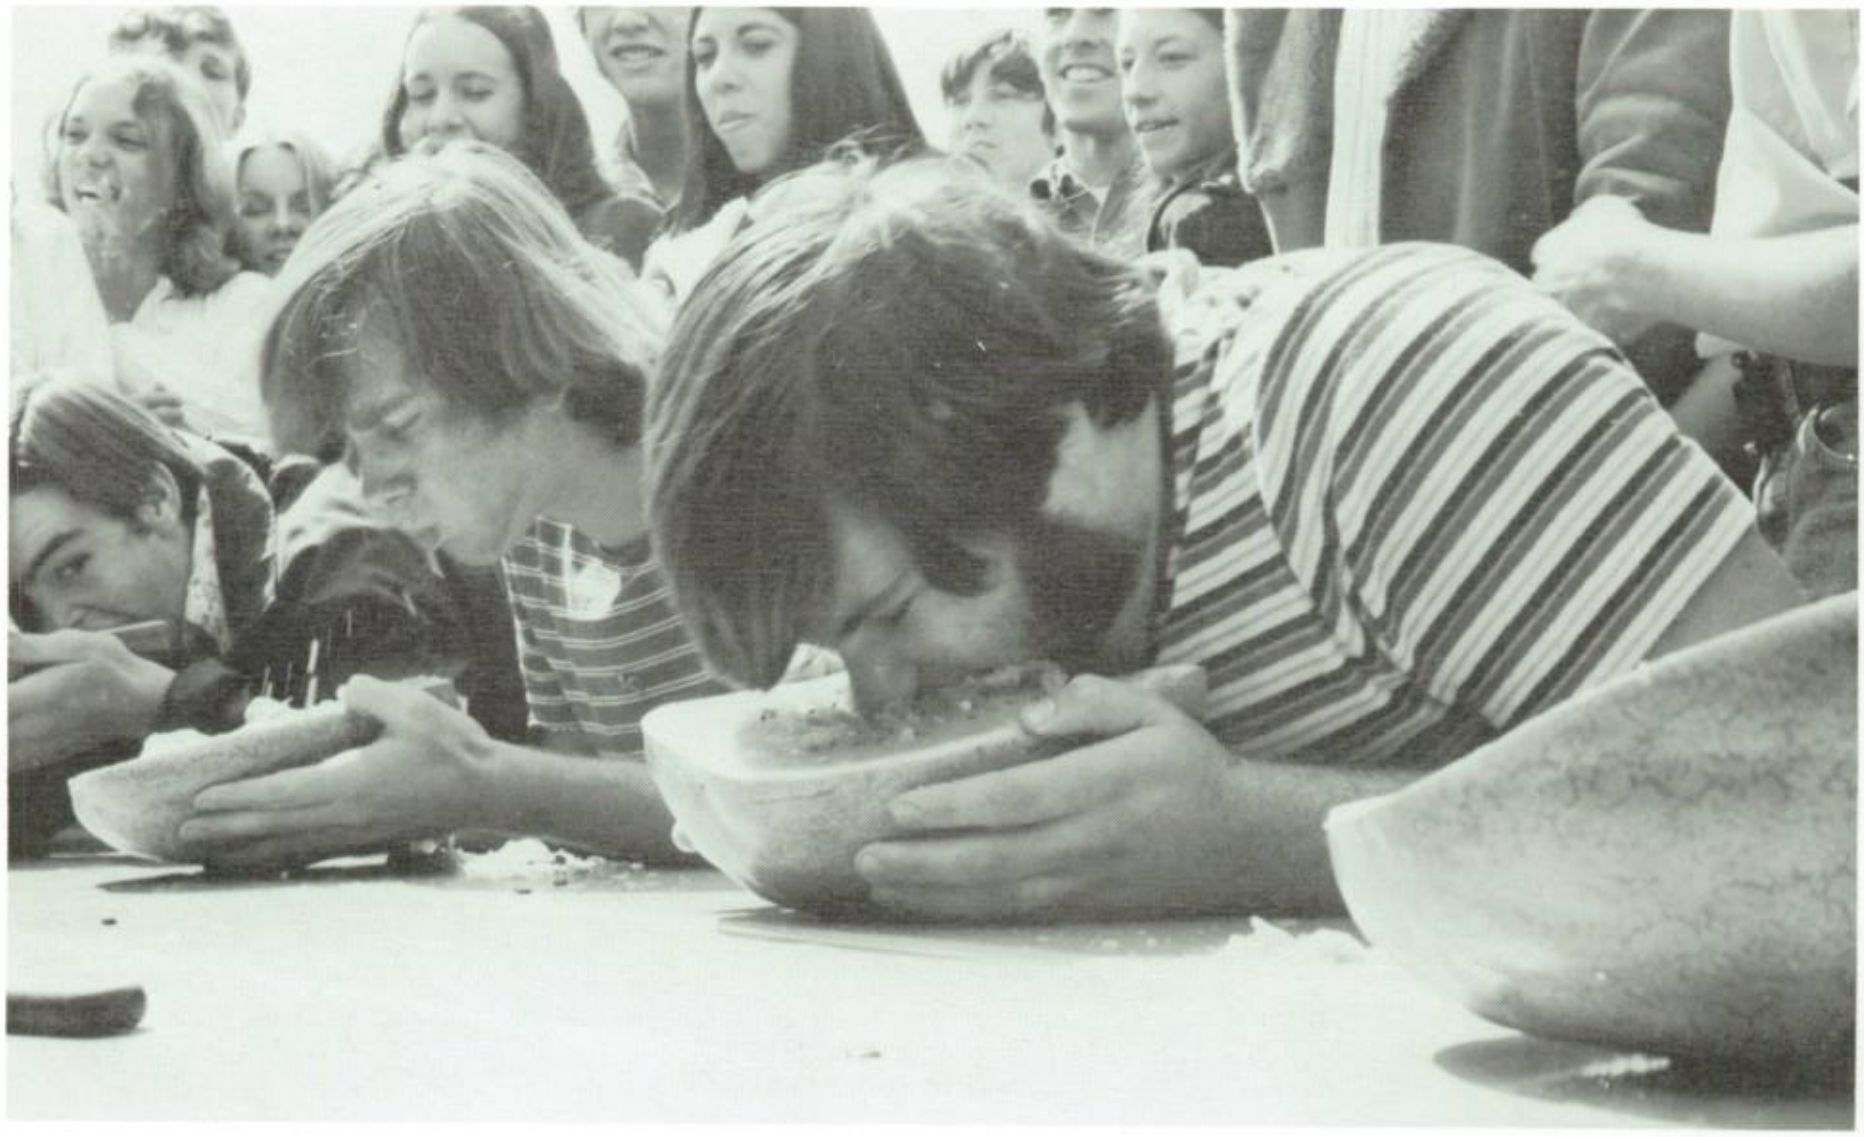
Associate principal, Mr. Berger, shows he has a sense of humor while students get a chance to "get back" at administrators.





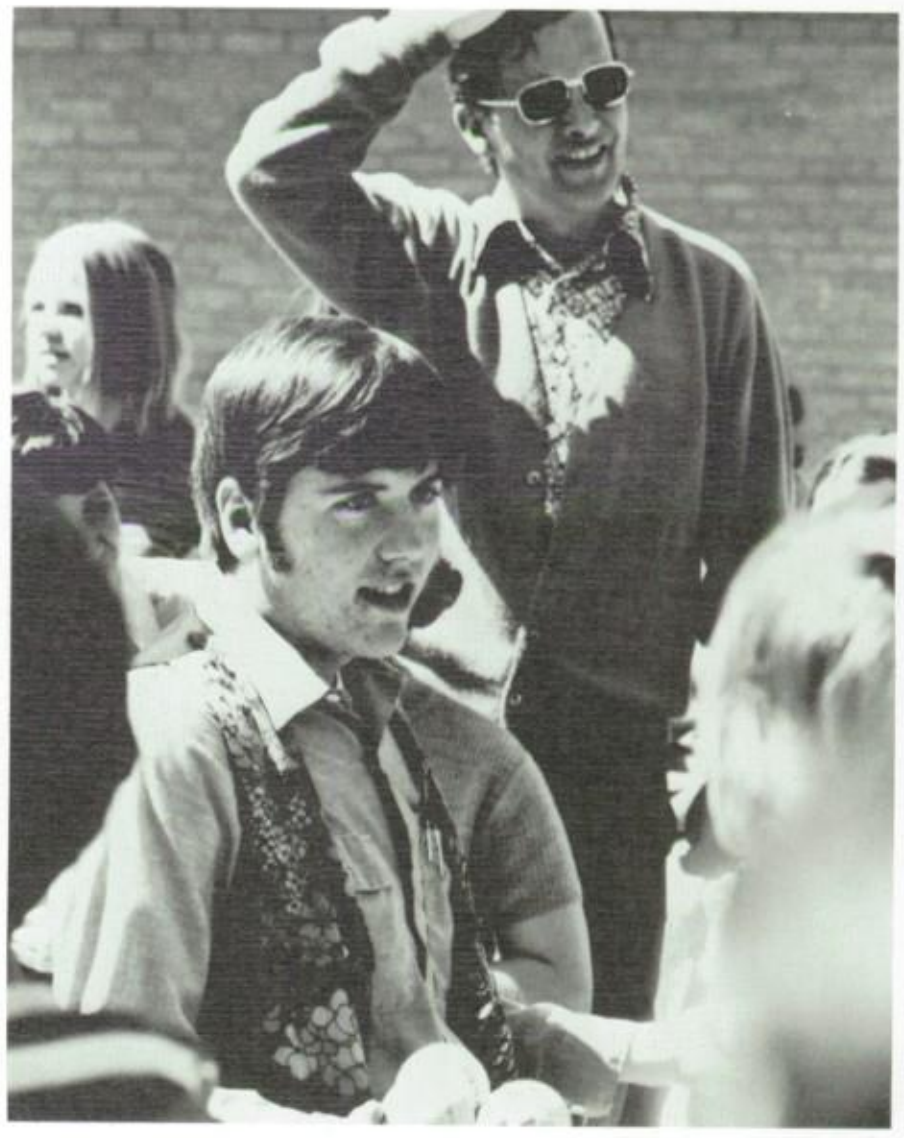
Steve Meyers and Steve Canady show just how to portray Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid, all the way down to playing solitaire!

Bloating themselves to capacity are the "Big Eaters of Alhambra High." Their objective: to eat watermelon in the least time possible. All matters put aside, these brave individuals forged onward to devour half a watermelon a piece.



A Junior at Alhambra, Andy Anderson, eagerly attempts to meet the challenge of consuming the most watermelon as rapidly as possible. Andy, just think! You may have a second chance at retrieving the title next year as a senior.

RIGHT: Mr. Goss and Scott Johnson were the coordinators of the Rodeo activities for this year. Scott is preparing to dunk a willing student.



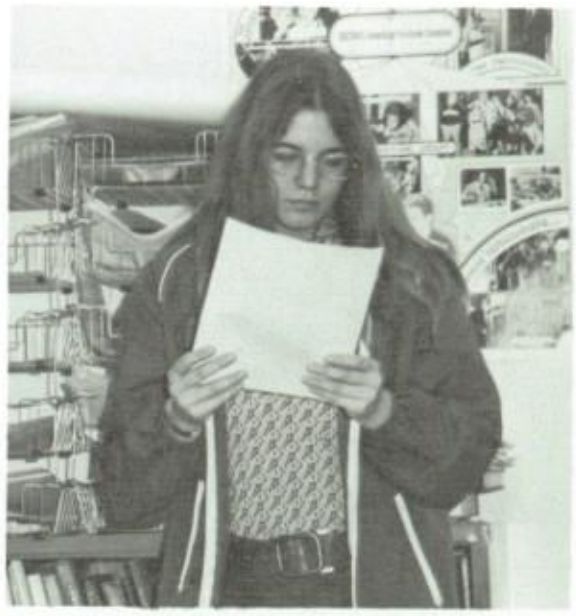
BELOW: Tying up is just the first stage of this couple's dilemma, the next dilemma is getting untied before any other couple.

At the dunking booth between the auditorium and the quad, several personalities of AHS received the privilege of being inadvertently dunked. Jerry Heuett is just one of the courageous volunteers waiting to be dunked by a revenge-seeking classmate.

"Togetherness" can go too far such as the "Great Tie Up" during Rodeo week in which the participants had to untie themselves in the least amount of time possible. Several students look on as this freshman couple tries unsuccessfully to untie themselves.

"Head Fella," Mr. Cunningham, inspects a senior picture received from a studio.

Carol Agnew, editor-in-chief, is discussing new designs with "Mr. C." for the FORTRESS.



Assistant editor, Debbie Groenig, is reading an information sheet for her section, Honors.

Individual picture policy hinders FORTRESS staff

The 1972-73 FORTRESS started off very slowly. For the first two or three weeks the staff had to get organized because of a new district wide system of taking individual student pictures. With most of last years staff being Seniors and graduating, there turned out to be only five experienced staffers this year. Once the new staff was initiated into the routine of things, it really began moving. Deadlines were met with fairly good ease and everyone began to pull for the main purpose—finishing the book.

It was decided to change the books usual routine of things. Reorganization of the clubs section included introducing the standardization of write-ups on the right hand side of each page. The cover was changed from the usual embossing to a new texture effect.

This years theme, New Directions, was based on the fact that the school has changed and reorganized itself into a newly born high school.

Laura Green, clubs assistant, listens intently to an explanation of how to write copy.

Theresa Richey, academics editor, grins when she realizes the sneaky camera is around.

First semester editor, Judy Gallimore, types the editorial forum which is in each issue.

Three Scimitar staffers receive top state awards

The SCIMITAR staff had an outstanding year. Despite the debt they inherited from last year's staff they deserve every bit of credit they have brought to Alhambra. According to research conducted by the staff, no other newspaper staff in the district had received as many honors last year.

Judy Gallimore received a first place honor for Editorial Writing. Judy's editorial was on the traffic problem placing the blame on the community, students and administration. A second place award went to Bob McClay for sports writing, and honorable mention went to Ed Miller for a picture he entered.

They standardized the paper to six pages, no more, no less.

Denise Crane, second semester editor, talks on the phone trying to get advertisements.

Mr. Martin Krey, SCIMITAR advisor, tediously searches through a file drawer looking for information to use for a story in an upcoming issue.

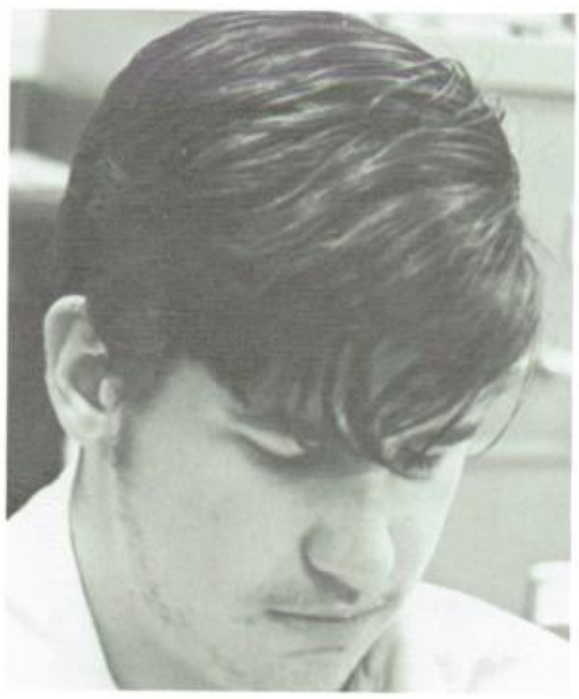
Bob McClay, news editor, won second place state honors for his sports writing.



Andree Bouty is one of the many reporters who work on the SCIMITAR staff this year.

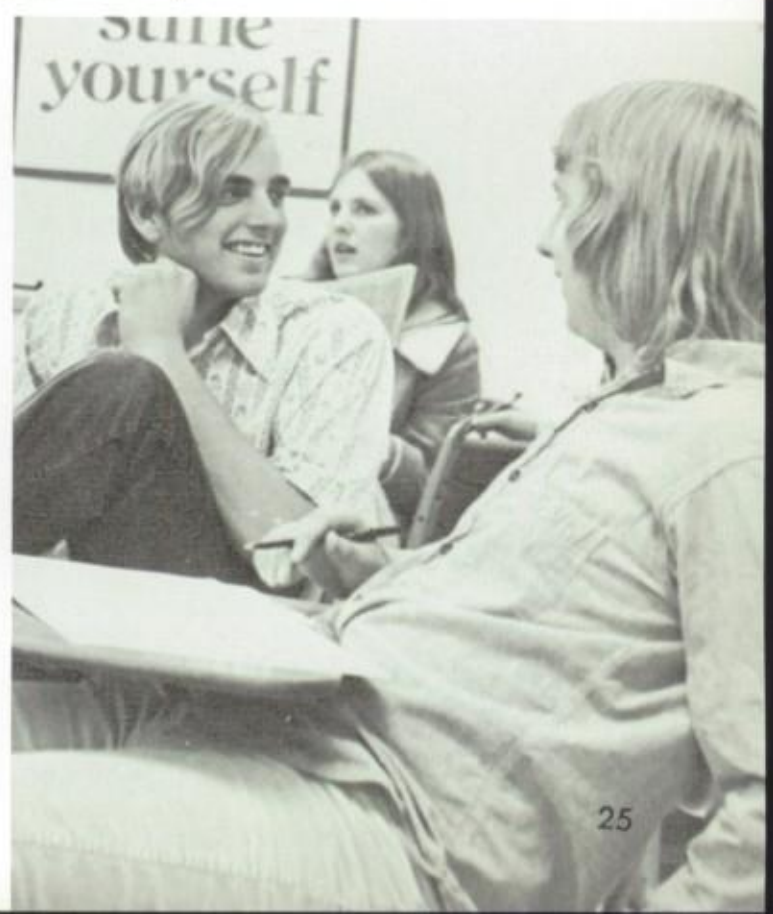
Advertising Managers Mark Schander and Debbie Starkey look at a newspaper ad layout.

Robbie Zelman, reporter, concentrates on the feature story he is trying to write.

TOP: Kerry Harrold and Kay Piske, reporters, put the finishing lines on a story. MIDDLE: Steve Baird and Ann Mulcahey, photographers, look over the new SCIMITAR camera. BOTTOM: Grace Merski and Jane Mercer laugh over a cartoon they have drawn.

Artists Mike Meyers and Mike Heltemes relax after finishing their sketches for a deadline.

Eddie Miller received an honorable mention in news photography at the journalism convention. Debbie Farley and Donna Whitney deserve thanks for keeping accurate books.



"My Three Angels" drama first semester hit

First semester the drama department produced the play, "My Three Angels." The play takes place in the back part of a small general store in Cayanne, French Guiana. The store is owned and operated by the Ducotel family and is situated in the middle of a prison colony from which he has three convicts repairing his roof. The convicts aid Marie Louise and Felix invites them to spend Christmas with them. Maries' boyfriend and his father came to the house and the convicts decide they are evil and try to get rid of them. They even help Felix doctor his books.

Jules (Mark Shillington) embraces Felix (Dave Hendrickson) to his amazement.

These are the three convicts, Jules (Mark Shillington), Joseph (Mark Schoenfeld) and Alfred (Mitch Newcombe). Here they are collecting trimmings for their Christmas.

Marie Louise (Stephanie Olson) and Paul (John Giardina) secretly meet.

At the end of the play, "My Three Angels," the entire cast resumes their position on stage while the audience eagerly applauses for them.

"A Funny Thing Happened" drama students' big success

Vibrata, Cindy Shoup, dances to show Pseudolus, slave to Senex, one of her abilities.

The cast of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" demonstrate their competency for the art of acting and creating comedy for the benefit of the audience.

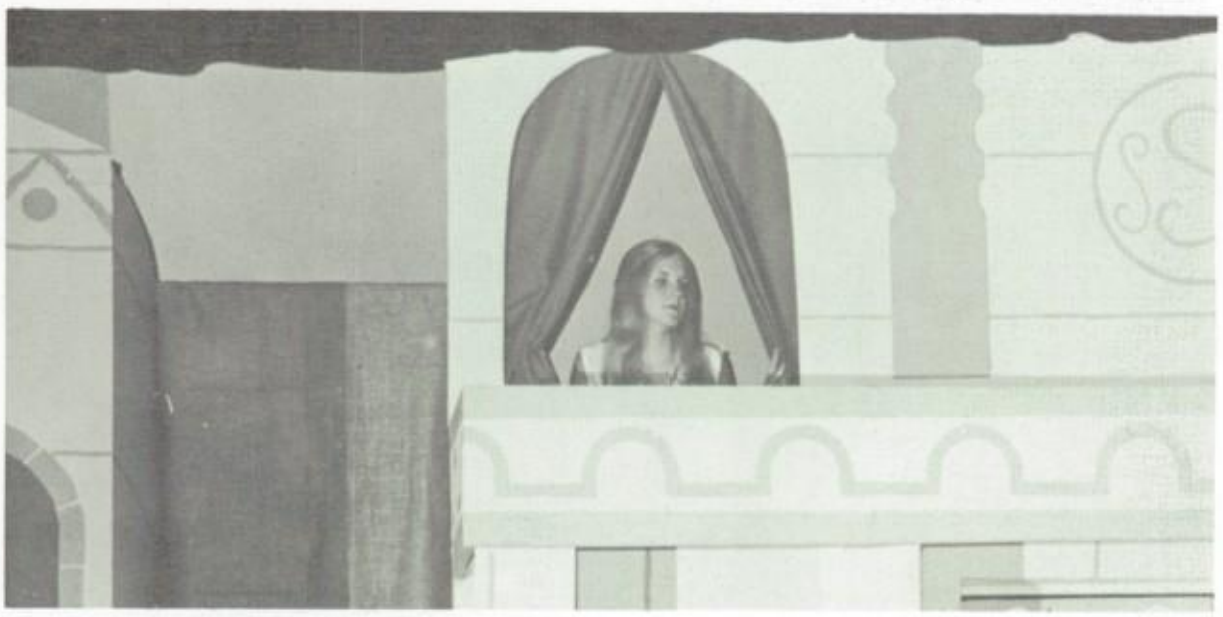
In hopes of being bought by Pseudolus, Panacea, Rosa Hoback, exhibits her talents.

The Drama and Music Departments again made a combined effort and produced the comedy "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

Actually, the story evolves around three adjacent houses. No one makes it to the Forum and never starts for the Forum. Pseudolus is the slave to Hero who wishes very much to be free, but for him to receive his freedom he must help Hero catch Philia who also is being sought after by Senex, Hero's aging father. With Pseudolus trying to foil the males after Philia, it is bound to happen that his schemes boomerang and get him into deeper trouble.

Pseudolus leads Hysterium down the steps of Lycus to replace the supposedly dead Philia.

Miles Gloriusus threatens the life of Pseudolus when he failed to produce Philia.



Mindy Byrd, who plays the beautiful sought after Philia, gazes down from the House of Senex toward her supposed Captain, Miles Gloriosus, who is played by Ivan Wilcken.

Enthusiastic performances big success

The Alhambra Band executed another outstanding year under the fine leadership of Mr. Pat Lebs. Aiding Mr. Lebs were the officers Wayne Tharp, president; John Sapp, vice-president; and Natalie Morales, secretary.

The band executed some outstanding marching in several parades, including the Rodeo parade and they also marched at the Arizona State Fair. Three concerts were held and they attended a music festival.

The Pep Band, which consists of students from intermediate and advanced bands, played at ten basketball games.

Mr. Lebs has directed the band since 1963 at Alhambra High. His outstanding accomplishments have included hundreds of performances. He is shown with the Pep band.

Regular band members have the option of playing in a group called the Pep Band. The Pep Band is entirely volunteer and they play at basketball games and pep assemblies. Because they are a volunteer group, each time they play there are different members playing.

The orchestra planned to give a concert March 9, at the state hospital. Many times they performed on campus.

They performed for the Harlem Clowns Basketball game in January. Three Concerts were held and twenty-one assemblies were held for Elementary schools around the district.

Stage band members, Danny Kuwitsky and John McHatton are caught playing their trombones. Trombones are an integral part of the band's performances at Alhambra High.

Chorale performs several concerts

Officers of the Chorale were president, Dwight Carrell; vice-president, Greg Bond, and secretary-treasurer, Pamala Edmunds. The group sang for several organizations in order to get new royal blue uniforms. The group was under Mr. Clifton's direction.

The Chorale performed a Christmas concert at Park Central and KOOL TV Station.

In order to perform all the concerts that the Chorale group performs there must be several hours of practice with their music. The group met second hour each day.

The Choralettes performed for many varied organizations during the year. They attended a fine arts lab in October, and planned to attend a music festival in May. Performances were held at four elementary schools in the district, they planned to perform at all elementary schools. They sang for service clubs, shopping centers, and hospitals. Twelve choral productions were held on campus.

Many members of the Choralettes belong to a group called Chorale. Chorale is a group of students which went to many of the grade schools to do presentations of music.

Girl's League has busy schedule

One of the busier groups on campus this year was Girls League. They held daffy apple sales at home football games, sponsored a sports dance with the band Jonah playing, a mum sale at Homecoming, jeans decorating contest with the prize being the price of a pair of pants from Pants Country, and a coke party for the freshmen.

The officers attended a workshop October 28 at South Mountain High School.

The annual Christmas formal "A Christmas to Cherish" was held December 16 with the colors being red, green, and white.

Tele-hearts were sold for the price of 15¢, for a message and a box of candy. All teachers received a heart, "Compliments of Girls League."

Student Executive Committee had an uncommonly active year. The Committee helped the administration make policies that concerned the student's rights of expression on campus and rights of attendance. Interdistrict exchanges of students were also held. SEC worked on several school projects throughout the year, including the rearrangement of the tables in the cafeteria. They worked in conjunction with other groups on student government affairs.

Lucy Wartenberg and Blake Nunnelly show their Rodeo spirit by presiding as Sheriff and Queen during Rodeo Day. Lucy is the first foreign exchange student to hold that title.

AFS student elected as Rodeo Queen

This year is the first time a foriegn exchange student received the honor of being chosen Rodeo Queen. Rodeo week was ruled by Lucy Wartenburg, Queen and Blake Nunnelly was Sheriff. Assisting them were freshman attendants Sue Gregg and Dave Giver; sophomore attendants were Teri Shuck and Ron Gengler; senior attendants were Karen Espinosa and Ken Ross. Senior attendants, Ken Ross and Karen Espinoza, take time out from their busy day to pose for the FORTRESS camera during Rodeo day.

Babette D'Agostino and Charlie McNulty, sophomore attendants, wait patiently so they can once again enjoy various Rodeo activities.

Marilyn Ham, Key Sweetheart, was chosen by members in their annual choosing of the sweetheart. Marilyn has been active in various clubs both on and off campus.

Marilyn Ham selected Key Sweetheart

An organization exclusively for boys selects a sweetheart each year. This year they chose Marilyn Ham. The runners-up were Stephanie Olson, Joyce Larson, and Denora Denver. The girls were chosen on terms of their activeness in the school.

Marilyn started her active life her freshman year with GAA. Her sophomore year she made the JV cheer line, and was an active member in class council and activities committee. She was on the varsity cheer squad her junior and senior years and active in Key Club, class council, Student Senate, and was selected for National Honor Society. Marilyn went to National Science Foundation in the summer of her junior year. She also received awards for various activities.

First runner-up, Stephanie Olson, was active in Thespians and student government.

Joyce Larson, second runner-up, has been active in many clubs and activities.

Third runner-up, Denora Denver, was active in the cheer squad and clubs.

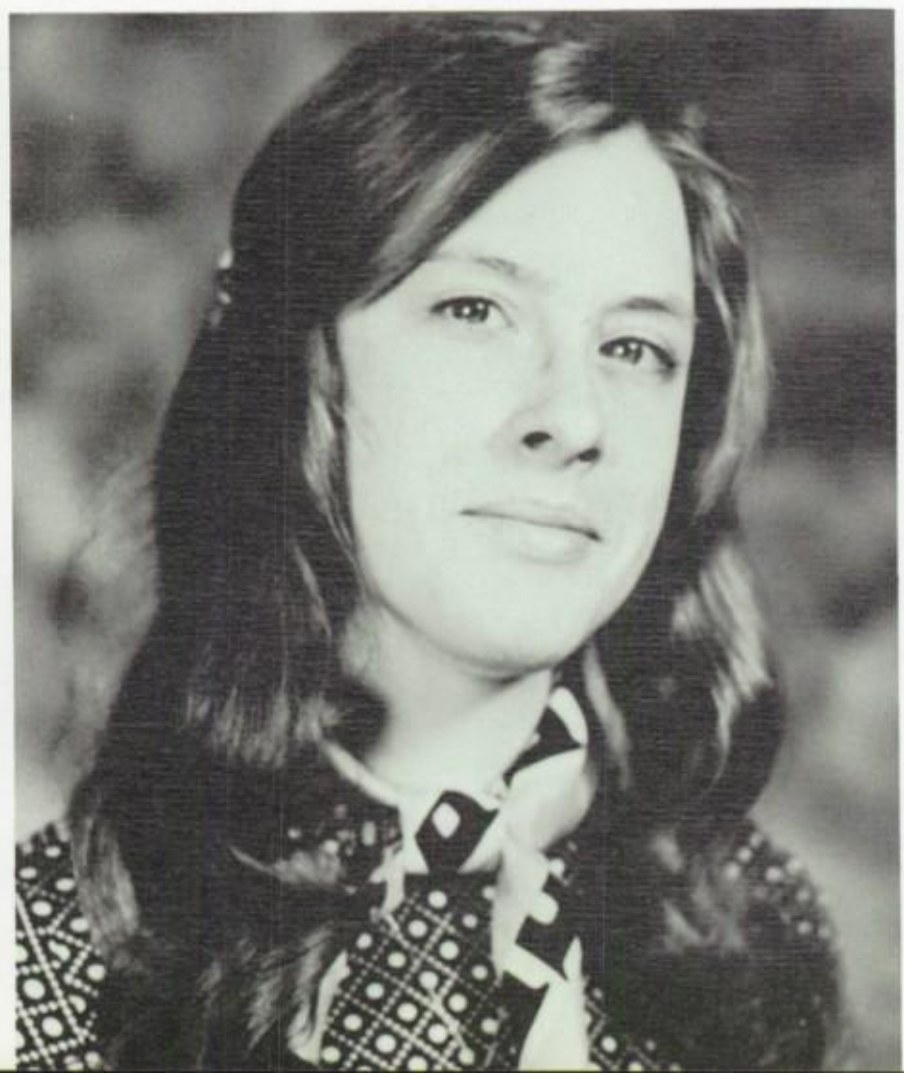
Sheila Crosser chosen DECA sweetheart

Girls from each DECA class were chosen to participate in the DECA sweetheart competition. The girls were interviewed by various people to discover her personality along with poise, intelligence, and looks. The girls were asked such questions as, "What do you think about the ending of the Viet Nam War" and "What are you going to do when you graduate from high school." Some questions from the state competition were purposely left out from the school questioning so the judges could have the same opportunity of surprise on the present school winners.

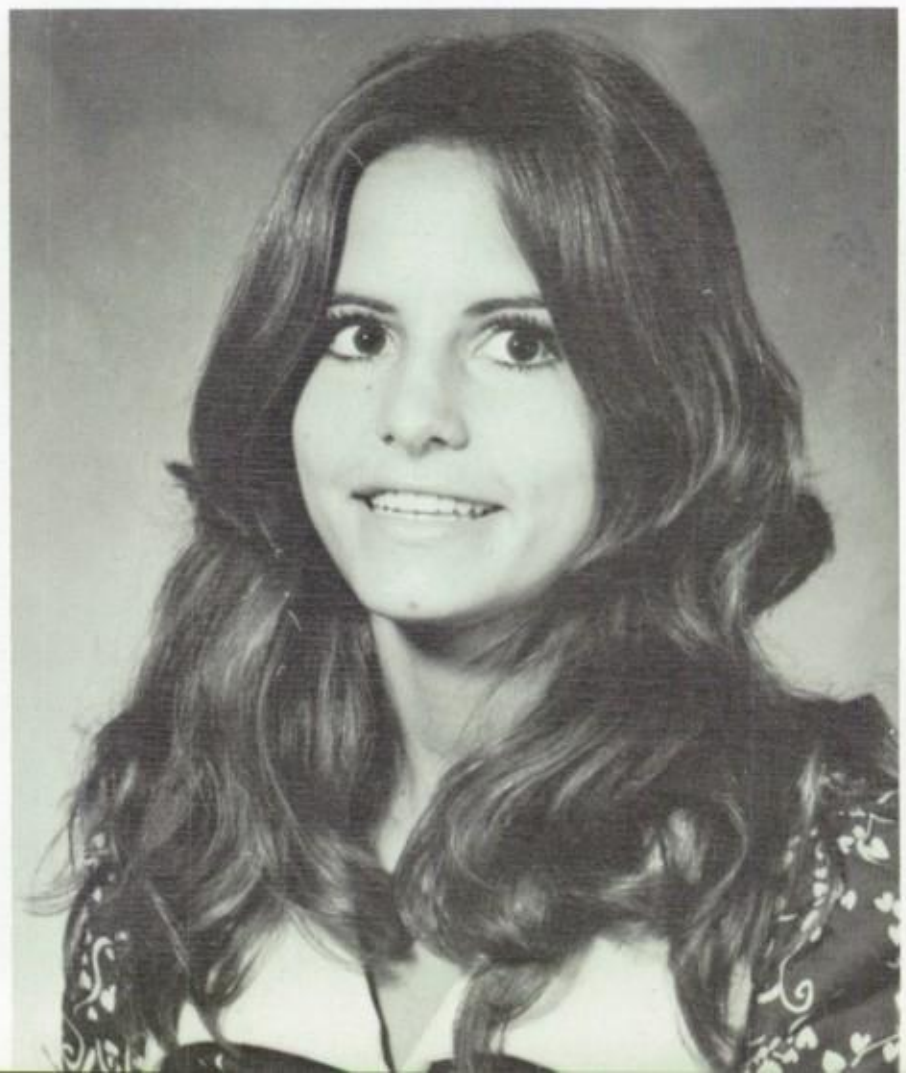
For the first time in quite a while a junior was chosen for sweetheart and two seniors for her attendants. DECA sweetheart was Sheila Crosser with first attendant being Vicki Holomon and Denise Abbott as second runner-up.

Sheila Crosser, a junior at Alhambra High, was selected as DECA sweetheart for the year 1973. She is one of the first juniors to be awarded the title of DECA sweetheart.

Chosen as first attendant by the judges at Alhambra High School is Vicki Holomon. She is a senior here and has been active in DECA.



Denise Abbott was chosen as second attendant for DECA sweetheart. Denise has been active in the business department at Alhambra High.



Lucy sees America through AHS eyes

Before I came here, I thought my school was big, but now that I am at Alhambra my opinion has changed. My school in Bogota has 800 students, all girls, in 12 grades. During the year we have the same classroom and the same friends. The system is really different, we can't choose our subjects, and everybody has to take about 15 subjects a year. If we flunk 3, we have to repeat the whole year. But with the strict education, we really have a nice time in the school and many good friends.

Many people ask me how I meet boys if my school is attended by only girls. We have lots of opportunities to meet people, many programs and places in the city where the young people go and many parties in general. The young people in Columbia are much the same as here in America and do many of the same things.

I am enjoying the experience in America. I think I will never forget the people I have met here, and I will take with me a nice concept about Arizona and Alhambra. Thank you students of AHS.

Susan visits Finland during summer

The Alhambra High AFS chapter sent Susan Tanita to Finland last summer. While she was there she stayed with a family that lived on a farm. Susan helped the family with their daily work around the house and experienced how they lived. While with the family she had her own private room which was in the attic of the house and noticed one funny thing about that part of the world; that it stayed light out past 10 pm during the summer but was light only a few hours during the winter months.

In Finland Susan traveled around the country seeing as much as she could during her brief but unforgetable visit.

Susan Tanita explains to the student body the experiences that she had while in Finland.

AFS and YFU students tour the FORTRESS room during their day at Alhambra High.

The students visited various rooms and looked over the campus during the day.

A look of surprise comes to Lucy Wartenberg's face as she realizes too late that one of the sneaky FORTRESS photographers caught her.

Lucy participated in Student Government while she attended Alhambra High. She learned just how much freedom the students actually had.

Maria Netto, Brazil; Ulla Kivioja, Finland

Maria Netto came from Brazil and arrived at Alhambra High for the second semester of school. Even though there was a language barrier between her and the student body, she went through the daily routines that every student does.

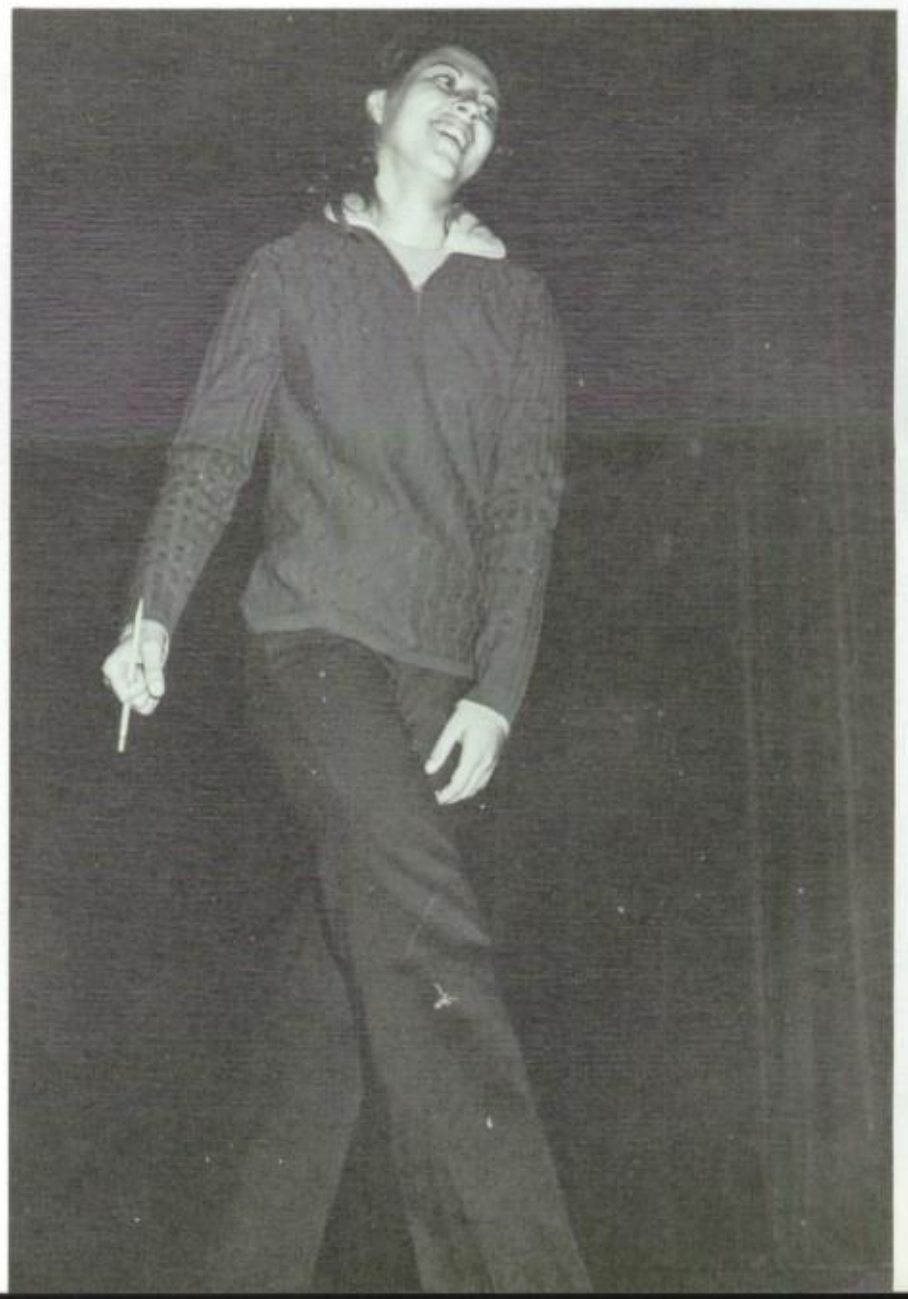
Ulla Kivioja came from Finland and, like Maria, arrived for the second semester of school. Ulla found Alhambra different than her school where she took 15 subjects a week and attended at least 8 hours a day. AHS was quite a relaxing change for her.

Ulla Kivioja talks to Alhambra High students about her home, Finland, during an assembly.

Ulla Kivioja looks towards students in hopes of explaining to them what is is like coming to a new country, new people, and new family. Alhambra is quite a change from her school.

Maria Netto looks happily towards the students of Alhambra High while Judy Gibbens tells a little about Maria and her home, Brazil.

Maria Netto happily walks toward the microphone to introduce herself to the students of Alhambra High School during the AFS assembly.



Mascot arouses spirit in Alhambra

Arousing the spirit in the students of Alhambra High were the active, bouncy, and always high spirited mascots. They attended games both here and away to spread enthusiasm throughout the crowd.

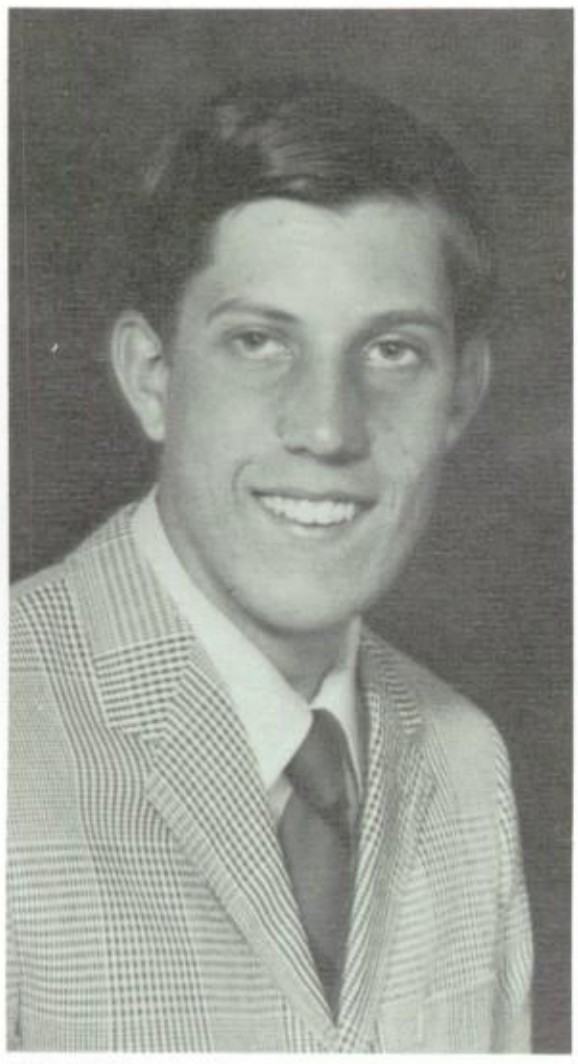
In order to become a mascot the applicants were interviewed by a committee consisting of students and teachers. They had to prove that they had the courage and ability to go out infront of the student body and perform the actions that a mascot must do.

During one of the many varsity basketball games, the exhausted lion takes a few minutes rest while an unexpected but welcome visitor arrives at the scene.

The lion mascot cheers on for the basketball team. Good going lion mascots.

Those full of spirit people who played the mascots this year are Debbie Kroll, Wanda Holmes, Susie Teeter, and Ron Wolf. They were selected because of their ability.

Kevin number one for class of '73



Ranking highest in his class is Kevin Gellenbeck. Kevin has been active in clubs.

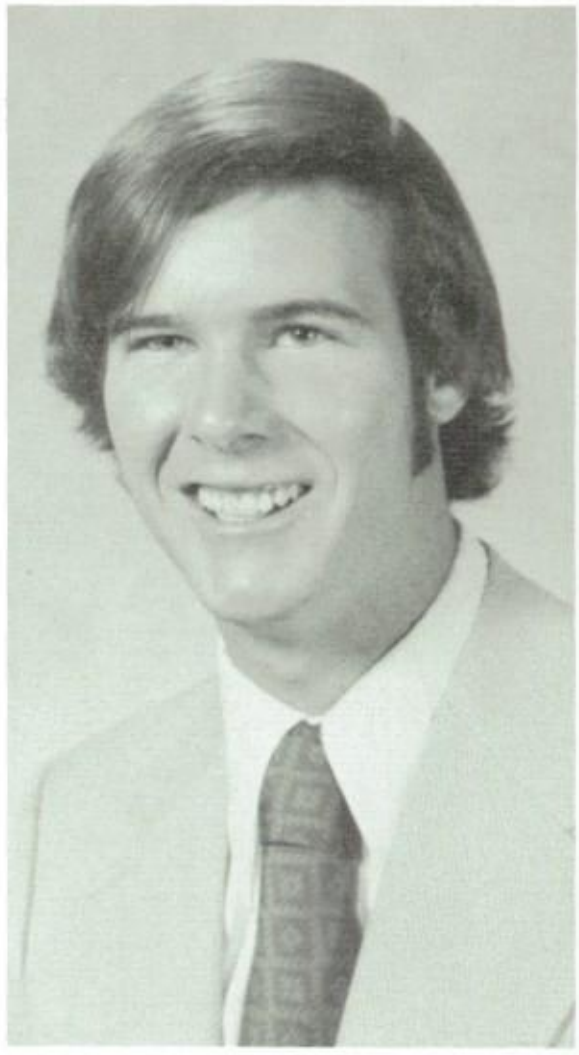
Tops in the class of seventy three was Kevin Gellenbeck followed closely by thirteen other students. These students make up what is known to the students of Alhambra High as the "Top Two Percent."

The students, besides having to keep up a high grade average, cannot have any demerits or any other types of difficulties within the school.

Keeping up with just the studying was not enough for some so they were active in clubs and other special school activities that made them even more worthy of being in the top two percent.

The other four of the highest five in Alhambra, scholastically, consisted of seniors Charlie McNulty, Layne Adams, Marilyn Ham, and Dan Kuwitzky.

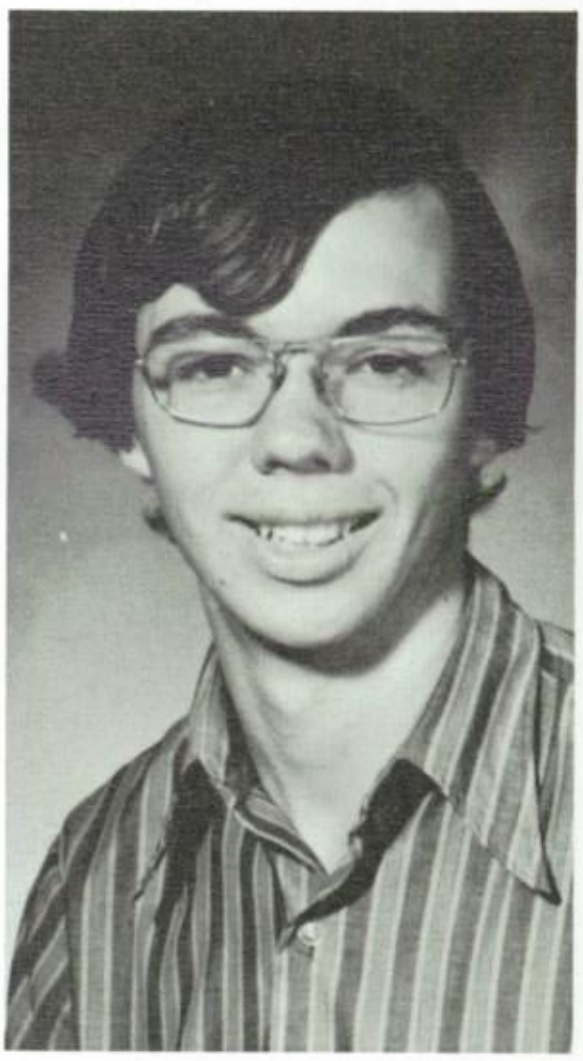
The remaining of the fourteen for top two percent were Pam Luzier, Ken Ross, Kevin Walker, Dolores Maston, Larry Bice, Margie Penton, Cheryl Brateman, Stephen Townsend, and Lannie Meade.



Second in the class of '73 is Charles McNulty besides being active in sports.

Third in his class is Layne Adams. Layne is an active member of many clubs.

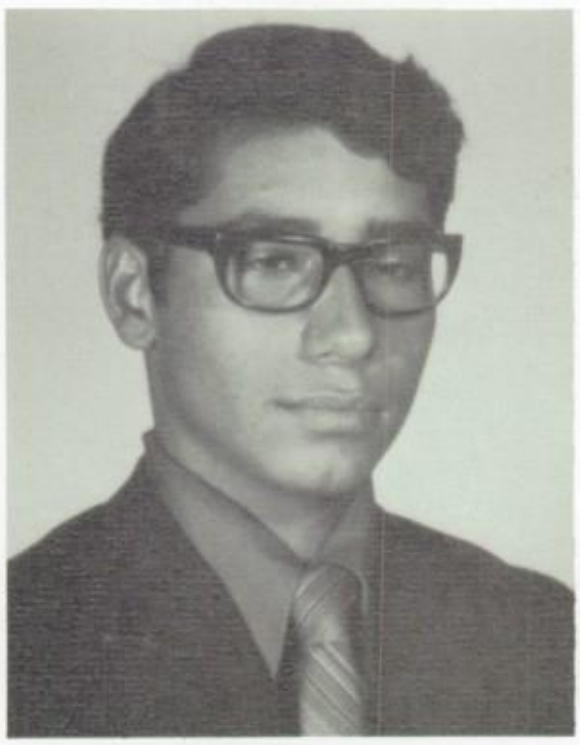
Active Marilyn Ham ranked fourth in her class. She was in many clubs and cheers.

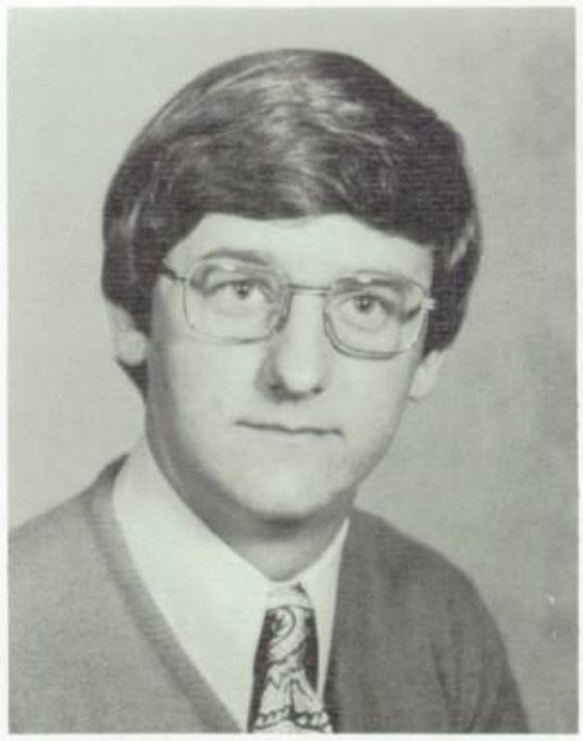


Daniel Kuwitzky, fifth in his class, was a member of the band here at Alhambra High.

Sixth in her class is Pam Luzier.

Sixth in his class is Kenneth Ross.

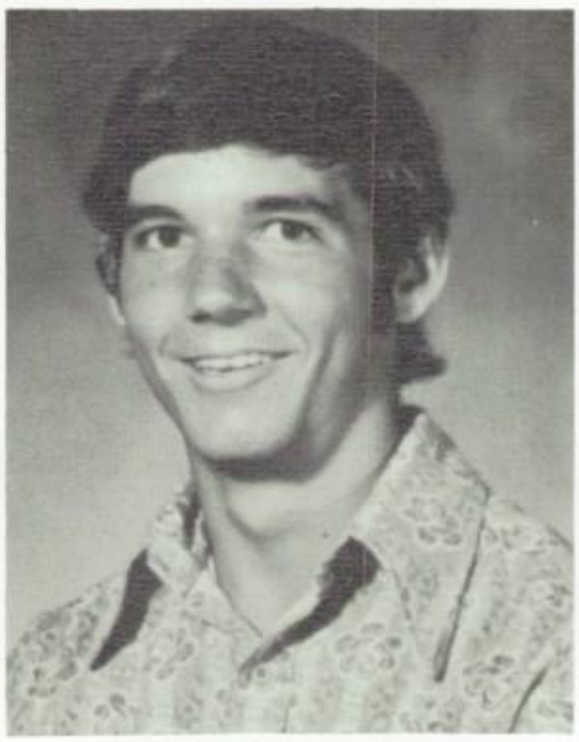




Eighth in his class is Kevin Walker.

Ninth in her class is Dolores Maston.

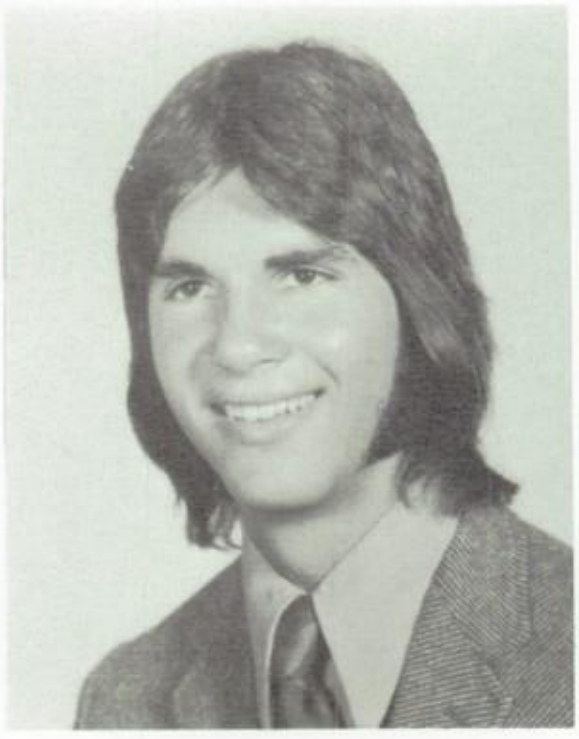
Tenth in his class is Larry Bice.



Eleventh in her class is Margie Penton.

Thirteenth in his class is Stephen Townsend.

Twelfth in her class is Cheryl Brateman.



Fourteenth in her class is Lannie Meade.

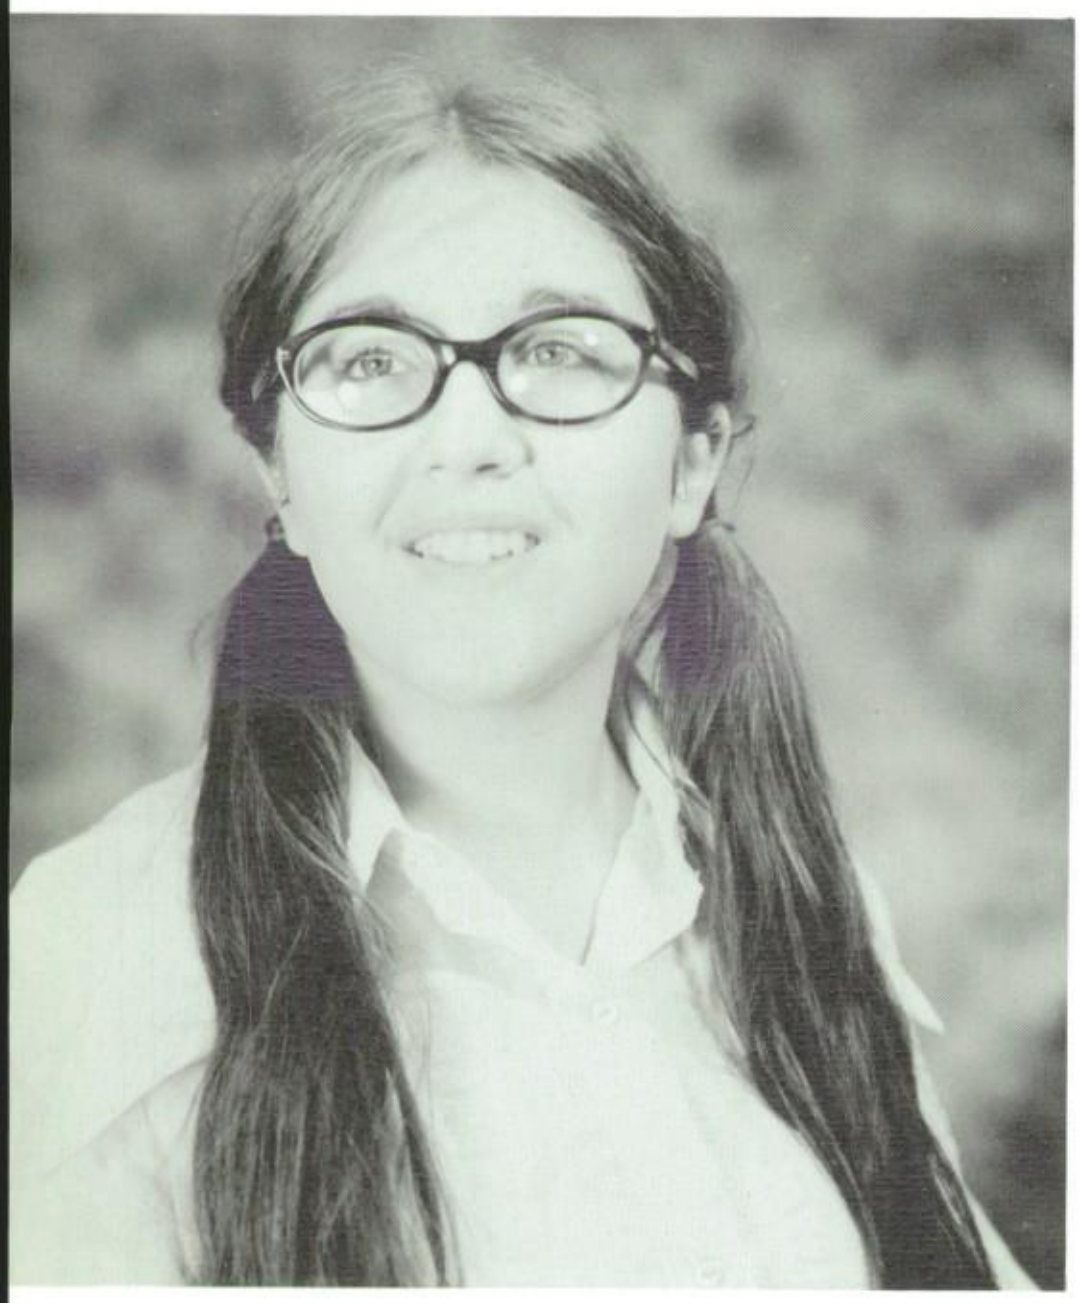
Allen, Dura, Giardina: All State

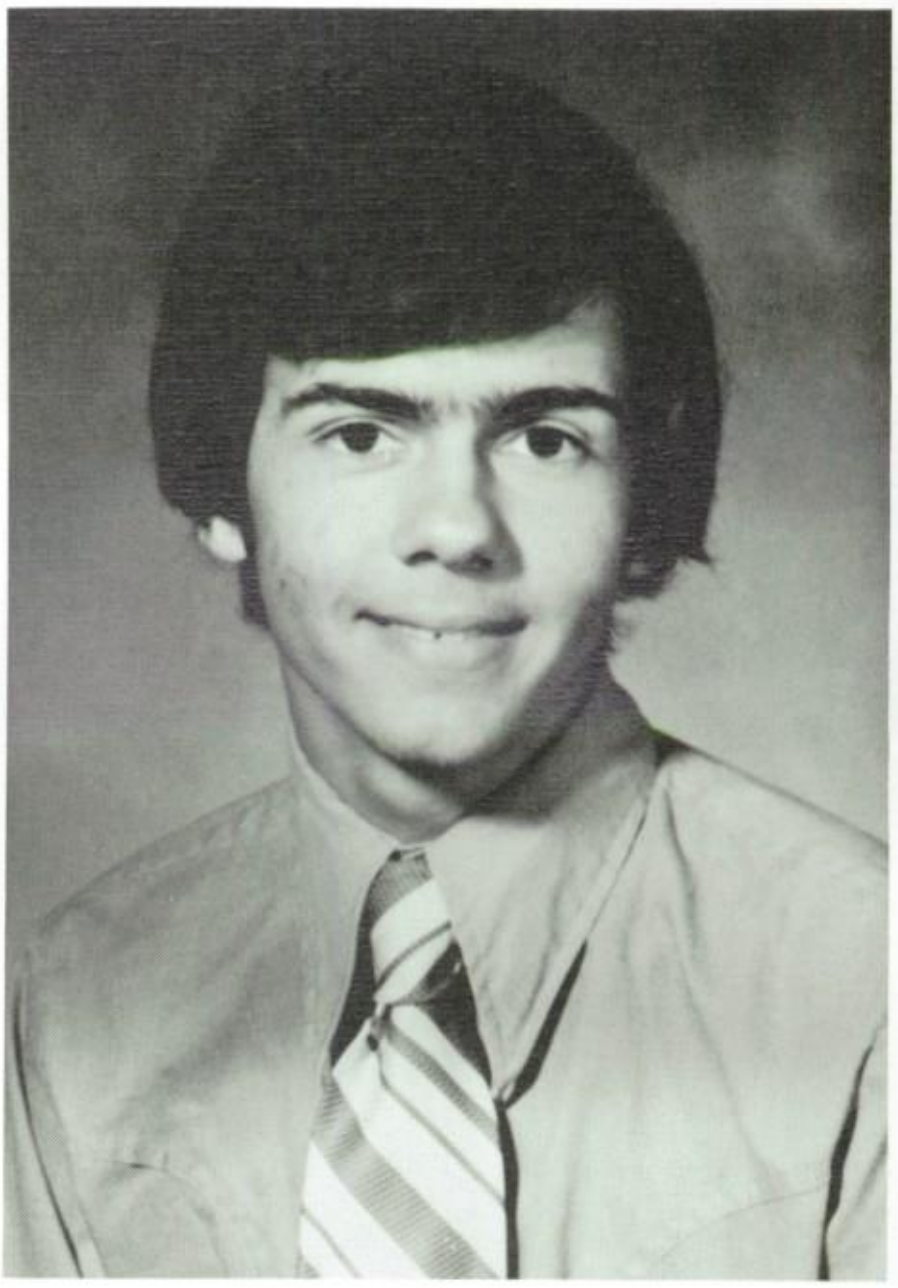
Alhambra students once again participated at the All State Festival. From the band playing the trombone was Bill Allen. Marian Dura from the Orshestra played the violin. John Giardina came from the chorale.

In order for the students to participate in the festival, they were given a Musician test. Each student prepared a solo which he performed for the judges and the musicians performed scales for the judges.

Bill Allen proved his talent as he played his way to make All State.

Marian Dura played her way to harmony with the others who made All State with strings.





Singing his way to victory as far as making All State was John Giardina in the festival.

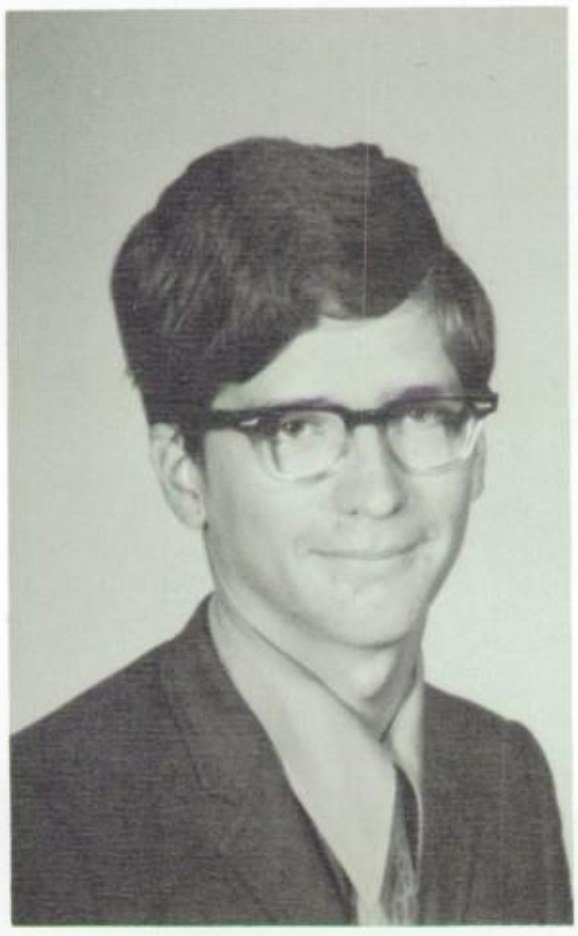
National Merit commends six

This year six students from Alhambra High were announced as commended students from the National Merit Corporation. The National Merit Scholarship Test which they took in February of 1972 was the first step to see if they qualified. Commeded were Layne Adams, George Crough, Marilyn Ham, Carl Johnson, Charles McNulty, and Steve Townsend.

To qualify them for finalists the students took the SAT test given in December of 1972. They were selected on the test scores.

Layne Adams was named as a commended student in the National Merit examination.

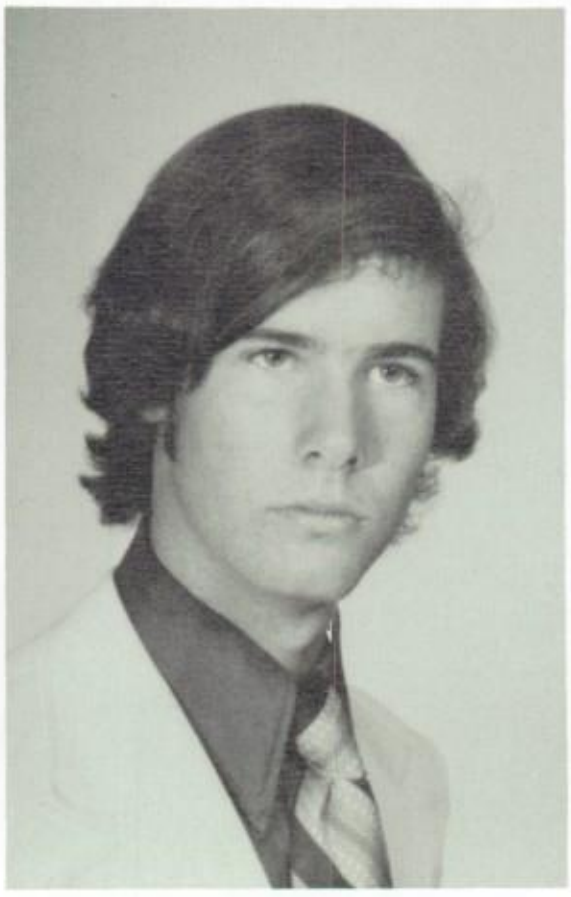
George Crough was also named as a commended student in the National Merit examination.

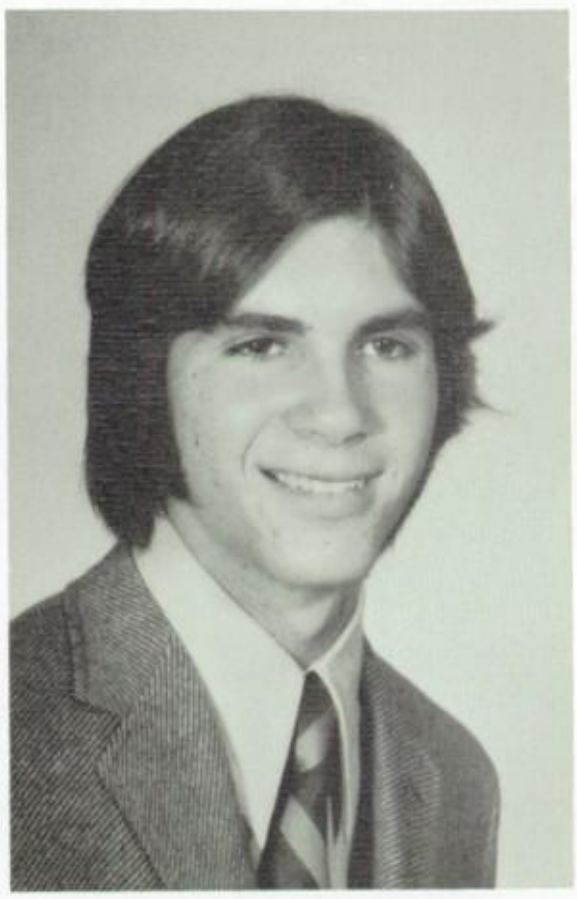


Marilyn Ham was also named as a commended student in the National Merit examination.

Carl Johnson was also named as a commended student in the National Merit examination.

Charles McNulty was also named as a commended student in the National Merit exam.





Steven Townsend was also named as a commended student in the National Merit exam.

Quill and Scroll reaches new high in membership

Quill and Scroll, with its new rooms apart, had some difficulties in communications between club members.

Three of the four officers were on the SCIMITAR staff and the other on the FORTRESS staff. The main purpose of the club is to combine writing talents and print their works.

NHS moves to snow for cool time

Headed by president Kevin Gellenbeck, vice president Valerie Jenkins, secretary Sue Vold, and treasurer Kevin Walker, with help from sponsors Miss Friedman and Mrs. Murray, National Honor Society not only kept with the old traditional money making project known as the "lovers delight," namely the mistletoe sale, but also took a not-so-annual trip up to the snowbowl.

The tutoring that the members of NHS did for the benefit of the students had a poor response from both students and the members, but they did help the students who were in need of this service.

Harmony is set goal for Alhambra

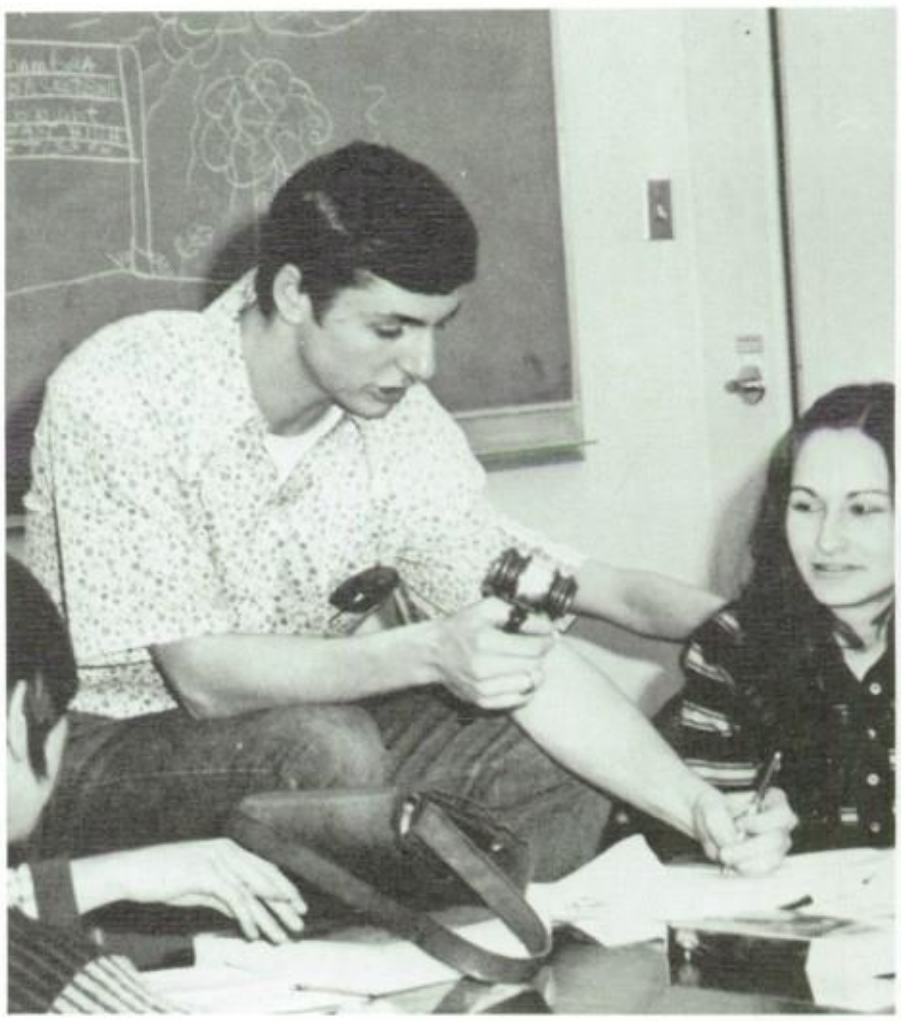
The Student Government Workshop was attended by Greg Beck, Lori Tomlinson, and Terri Shuck this year. The workshop was developed to help the officers communicate between people, cope with problems and pressures, and various problems relating to other high schools. They hoped this would bring harmony and involvement within their schools.

While with the workshop Greg, Lori, and Terri met many new students from other schools. Lori stated, "It really gave me a good feeling being with 150 kids all striving for the same goal, to harmonize their schools."

Anytown, even though it has been around for a long time, is an experimental camp. To get to the camp is half the fun. First you put in an application, then you have the privilege of having an interview conducted by Mr. Nixon. Out of the people who apply only about four end up going. Anytown tried to create a perfect community within the camp.

Anytown sent four Alhambra students to the camp this year. They are Gina Haas, Judy Gibbens, Terry Shuck, and Landy Tang. The goal was for complete harmony in the camp.

Student Government Workshop representatives this year are Terri Shuck and Lori Tomlinson. At camp they studied how to run govt.



Greg Beck was another Student Government Workshop representative. Their goal was for complete harmony within their schools.

Government, science, music studied

This years representatives for Girls State from Alhambra High are Kim Berlin, Dorthy Huey, and Stephanie Olson. Not pictured, but was active, is Lori Tomlinson.

If you like government and how it is run, Girls State is it. The girls learned about state government, such as running for office, various state laws, and how a political party functions. They took part in debates that they created themselves, looked at the different aspects of government and saw just how complicated government really is.

National Science Foundation and Oceanography went together for the intense study of what inhabits our waters. They held lectures and conducted experiments and they also had a four week research project on current studies.

The ASU Fine Arts Camp was for the study of music and various instruments. If you had gone you would have studied composition and had a chance to write your own tune. You even had a chance to perform it!

Marian Dura attended the ASU Fine Arts Camp during the summer. At the camp she studied music, what makes it and how to play it.

Attending the National Science Foundation last summer is Marilyn Ham. She studied the ocean and what inhabits the water.

A few of the members of the Creative Writing Club discuss their plans for the publication of their magazine, Free Form. The Free Form contains various works by Alhambra students.

Imagination, logic aid clubs' success

The special project that the Creative Writing Club works on throughout the year is the publication of a literary magazine called Free Form. The Free Form is made up of all types of stories and poems written by the club members and other students of Alhambra.

The club holds a plan and effect contest to get the needed material for the magazine. The winners of the contest are given cash prizes, and their entries are used in the magazine.

The money earned from the sale of the Free Form enables the club to publish the magazine the following year.

The Future Homemakers of America attended the FHA district meeting at Trevor G. Browne in December and went to the state convention at Tucson in April.

The officers were Marian Christenson, President; Laura Johnson, Vice President; and Deborah Bradford, Secretary-Treasurer.

Their problem last year was trying to build the membership of the group, and as of press time they had no projects or activities planned.

This past year the Chess Club members devoted long hours to developing clear thinking and sharp minds. Long hours were spent using their playing skills to better their games.

New members were taught all the techniques that are used in chess and how important accuracy and logic are involved in making good moves.

The Community Can recycling bin, located in the parking lot, is shown after it has been opened.

The bin contained hundreds of pounds of recycleable tin and aluminum cans.

Groups work to better the environment

Lisa Williams, president of Fellowship, has kept the club busy. For a safety project the club sold reflector kits. During the Christmas Holidays the members went Christmas caroling at the childrens' home to bring the children the spirit of Christmas.

P.L.A.N.T., formerly the Ecology Club on campus, was dedicated to keeping the environment clean. P.L.A.N.T. stands for Preservers of Life and Nature Today.

The club sponsored the recycling paper bin at 35th Avenue and Bethany, and sold carob health bars during homecoming.

The members bought the school an ecology flag to hang on the flag pole as a reminder to everyone to keep the community clean.

The club spent a weekend on a research ranch where they worked with a U. of A. professor studying grasslands in their natural state.

P.L.A.N.T. also worked along with S.A.V.E. in erosion control and reseeding programs in the Prescott forests. The club received a plaque for its assistance in helping with these programs, which they presented to Mr. Goodwin.

VICA populates school campus with pine trees

Two hard working guys maneuver the drill that dug the holes for the evergreen trees.

Although handling the machine was tough, it beat digging all of the holes by hand.

A student plants one of the Aleppo pines that now beautifies the campus. The class succeeded in making the Alhambra campus one of the most attractive in Arizona.

The purpose of the Vocational Industrial Club of America is to serve through civic educational and vocational activities. VICA was established in 1965 and this year the members attended the Fall Leadership Conference in Tucson, in which all other VICA Clubs in Arizona attended. They also hosted the PUHS Conference.

This year the VICA club did something new for Christmas. The program involved both the faculty and students. The plan called for buying a living Christmas tree for the classroom, and during the holiday the club planted the trees on campus. The goal of the project was to populate the campus with evergreen trees and lift the spirits of the students during the holiday season.

Icthius reads Bible; skiers meet slopes

Icthius, the Bible club on campus, had its beginning two years ago at Alhambra but just last year it was approved by the administration. Icthius is Greek for "Jesus Christ God's Son Savior."

The club was designed for those people interested in learning about the Bible. The basic objective was to give students a place to meet and share Christ once a week.

During the meetings, the members, consisting of various denomations, studied the Bible and had discussions about it and once in a while they would sing.

Occasionally the club had guest speakers come to talk to them on how they were saved by Christ and how He affected their lives.

The club hoped it would be possible to hold a gospel concert to try and get the student body interested in Jesus' ways.

Making plans to go up to the snow to ski, and selling snow cones to support their cause kept the Ski Club busy this past year.

Besides making arrangements to go skiing, the club taught new members the basic techniques of skiing.

After their adventurous outings to Sunrise, both the experienced and inexperienced members returned feeling a little more knowledgeable about skiing, very exhausted, and probably a little sore from falling down.

Drama, Speech make successful productions

The Alhambra Thespians won several different awards and honors this year. The most outstanding event was hosting the first annual Thespian Convention in October, here at Alhambra.

The convention was made up of Thespians from all over the state and national Thespian representatives. During the convention the Thespians were taught dances and movements for on stage performing.

The Thespians spent many long hours rehearsing and preparing for their productions.

Forensics was constantly on the go preparing for speech tournaments and class debates.

During the speech tournaments the students were judged on how their presentation of their material came across to the audience.

Among their fund raising projects were selling soft pretzels.

Spanish Club organizes piñata party

This year the Electronics Club had several proposed tours of various companies in the Phoenix area. Among the companies to be visited were Honeywell, Motorola, Texas Instruments, Bell Telephone, and RCA.

The students used their knowledge and abilities of electronics to build stereo equipment, a computer, and a color T.V.

One of the problems that arose was the deficiency of funds for the project.

Awards were given for outstanding applications of electronic techniques and individual ideas.

The Spanish Club was the only foreign language club active this year. Their fund raising projects included a car wash, a bake sale, and an Ojo de Dios sale.

At Christmas they held a piñata party that was open to all the students at Alhambra. The party was a tradition of Spanish people. The party was a big success.

As a type of service project the club planned to go to Nogales to visit the schools there and take gifts that the club members made to an orphanage. Other special projects were a visit to a Spanish museum and attendance of a Spanish movie downtown.

Science Club travels taken through state

The Science Club was a very active club this year. Their money making projects consisted of car washes, candy sales, a bake sale, and they sponsored the sponge throw booth during homecoming.

The club traveled all over the state to see sights of interest. They went and saw the Phelps Dodge Copper Mine in Ajo, and toured a cotton research center. On their trip to Flagstaff they visited the U.S. Naval Observatory, the Museum of Northern Arizona, Sunset Crater, and Wupatki National Monument.

In the spring the club planned to make a four day trip to Mesa Verde National Monument, the Petrified Forest, and the Painted Desert.

The Interact Club started off the year with much enthusiasm by participating in the Care-Free Gum Contest sponsored by KRUX radio station.

The members' enthusiasm continued throughout the year, which was shown through the projects they carried out. Their community services included ringing bells for the Salvation Army at Christmas time and working for the Gompers Carnival.

Other events were a fund raising bake sale, selling club pins to club members, painting the bleachers, and an overnight bike hike.

HERO receives payment for school jobs

HERO was a very busy club this year in the way of projects and activities. They held a bake sale and a pickle sale. At Christmas time they held a Christmas boutique of handmade items made by the members.

Special projects that the club engaged in were writing to pen-pals in Korea, and doing an Easter service project for an orphanage.

The club members had a banquet for the sponsors and made plans to attend the HERO state convention.

GAA was one of the largest organizations on campus this past year. Some of their fund raising projects were a magazine sale, a candy sale, and a few bake sales.

At the beginning of the year the old members held a slumber party for the new members who had gone through the tedious process of being initiated into GAA.

The club members competed against other valley schools in a volleyball playday at Buckeye in October.

Matmaids, Pep give support to sports

This year the Matmaids helped the wrestlers by keeping score at the wrestling matches and building up the spirit of the wrestlers. They also served goodies to the wrestlers after the matches and held parties for them.

The Matmaids raised money by having a candle sale, placemat sale, a popcorn sale, and a bake sale. They had also hoped to sell a life-sized lion.

The Pep Club was reinstated this past year at Alhambra. Although the membership was small, the club did a great job of arousing enthusiasm and school spirit in the students.

The club painted signs to advertise games and during the homecoming game they organized a special pep section where posters were held up spelling "Lions."

The club sponsored a basketball game during both lunch hours in which the students played the faculty. The students won both games.

One of the many active clubs at Alhambra were the Lettermen. During homecoming they sponsored a slave sale in which the members of the football team were sold to the highest bidders.

The club also sponsored a grade school basketball tournament and a track meet.

The special activity of the year was hosting the Harlem Nationals Basketball game against the Alhambra All Stars.

The money they earned during the year was used to purchase films, trophies, and weight lifting equipment.

DECA helps students obtain job experience

DECA is one of the many school-work experience programs in use at Alhambra. In the classroom the students learn how to deal with business situations and methods of retail merchandising. DECA students are then placed in jobs in which they put to use their knowledge of merchandising.

Alhambra has two Arizona DECA officers. Paul Louk is the state Vice-President of the DECA clubs of Arizona, and Barbara Johnson is the Region VI Vice-President of Arizona DECA.

At the beginning of the year DECA sponsored a back to school breakfast for the new school administrators. The club also hosted a regional conference in October here at Alhambra, which involved about 200 students from throughout Arizona.

Among the money making projects that were held were a coke sale, candy sale, car wash, balloon sale, and research surveys.

Bowlers loft balls at new location

This past year the Bowling Club has made many changes. For the first time in its history it moved to another bowling establishment. The bowlers went to Bowlero. Here they were offered more. Split sessions hurt the club last year. The club had an attendance of about 30 to a low of around 8. This past year the club got 60 to 70 members attending weekly.

Again the members hoped to pick some of their bowlers to bowl in match play against each other.

This bowling club is one of the few recognized by the administrators as a school club in the PUHSS.

This good year could not have been possible without the assistance and guidance of Mr. Boglio and Mr. Geist, the club sponsors. The members would like to thank "Mr. B." for an extremely good year.

FTA members spend their time at different grade schools learning how to teach the students. The club's aim is to give those high school students who are interested in the teaching profession, a general knowledge of the teaching field.

Talented students show creativity

The Art Club members were busy the past year developing their artistic creativity through various trips and projects, including silk screening posters.

They planned trips to the Art museum and a tour of student and professional art exhibits. The members also designed publicity posters for different clubs on campus, to advertise the clubs' activities.

The club's annual special project was to help the Girls League design the artwork for their Christmas formal. This year the club designed a snow scene for that occasion.

The Computer Club became a major club on campus through the efforts of its president, Frank Freeman.

The goal of the club was to teach interested students how to program the computer to do their homework and play games. The students then used their programming ability by entering local and nationwide contests.

The money that the club had was used to purchase books and vital teaching aids for the over 200 students that used the computer room daily.

The major problems that were encountered this year were the frequent shut down of the computer and the limited use of the teletype terminals.

Goodwin, Berger make up new team

WELLESLEY C. GOODWIN, PRINCIPAL

Mr. Wellesley C. Goodwin heads up the first part of the new administrative team. This is his first time as a principal of a school consisting of 3,600 students. He is very highly pleased with the school and students and describes it as being "neat."

Mr. Goodwin feels a big school decreases the chances for individual acquaintance and students should try hard to develop a sense of concern and conscientousness for their fellow students and people in the outside world.

The three main things he feels he has accomplished this year are that he has gotten to know the school, students and faculty, which he feels is the most important. Secondly, he has started the development of specialized programs. He also feels he has been able to get students involved in the processes of group action and decision making.

Mr. George Berger makes up the second half of the administrative team. He was previously the Associate Principal at North High School before coming to Alhambra.

Mr. Berger thinks our school is really great, the students and faculty are nice and friendly and the facilities are as nice as he's ever seen.

This past year he has worked hard in trying to get greater participation and enthusiasm among the students by providing more student activities.

Like Mr. Goodwin, he agrees with the fact that a large school decreases enthusiasm and feels students should take a little more pride in their school, and would like to see a little more leadership qualities displayed by seniors.

Mr. Berger says, "We really are fortunate in having such a fine faculty. They are really interested in the students."

Mr. Berger has been with the PUHS system for twenty-four years.

GEORGE C. BERGER, ASSOCIATE PRINCIPAL

TRUMAN WINGO, administrative assistant for boys, received his M.A. degree from New Mexico Highland U.; he was a high school teacher for 19 years.

MRS. JUANITA LIPTON, administrative assistant for girls, has done graduate work at the Univ. of North Carolina and A.S.U.; she received her M.A. from Columbia U.

KEITH NIXON, administrative assistant, received his G.A. degree at Wichita State and his M.A. degree at Kansas State Teachers College.

Carolyn Warner named board president

Carolyn Warner, in her fifth year, was elected president of the Board of Education, and Ronald Jackson was named clerk.

In his second year, the district superintendent, Dr. Gerald S. DeGrow, implemented the reorganization of the District Services Office and put into force a process evaluation of teaching techniques, curriculm and school facilities through out the district.

Because of a drop in overall school enrollment, the board had to make budget cuts which resulted in the elimination of some programs.

The board set school goals stating that all graduates should be able to do well in the skill areas.

Five new classes added to English

Five new and different classes were added to the English curriculum this year in order to give students a more selective variety to their schedules. The new English courses include Photography 1-2, Science Fiction, Modern American Literature, and Advanced Composition. This selective English program was used this year for grades ten through twelve.

The objectives of the English Department were to provide the opportunity and to motivate the student to the accomplishment of his fullest potential in any English class.

The teachers are stressing the individualized instructional methods as much as possible, encouraging students to work with their peer groups.

During a Language and Human Behavior class Mr. Trezise helps a student with her homework assignment. The course is designed to give students a better understanding of the language they use. Also teaching this course are Mr. Wootton and Mr. Gibson.

Communications required of all frosh

Freshman Communications was required of all freshmen for the first time this year. The communications classes consisted of various teaching approaches involved in helping freshmen adjust to high school. The main approach used was team teaching in which teachers use an interdisciplinary program consisting of reading, English, social studies, and counseling.

Some courses stressed were high school orientation, mass communications, modern man, future man, law, and cultures.

The freshman communications building is a multi-purpose area. Students can gather for large group instruction as well as independent study.

Individual approach used in languages

The Foreign Language Department stressed the individualized study method this past year. Each classroom has a mini-classroom for smaller group work. The oral-aural skills such as texttapes, records, posters, films, and filmstrips were also used a great deal more this year.

The objectives of the Foreign Language Department are to help the student speak, understand, read and write a foreign language and also to create a better knowledge and understanding of other cultures as well as his own.

Home Ec., I.A. add three new classes

Added to the Home Economics and Industrial Arts departments were three new classes. These classes included Bachelor Survival 1 & 2, Industrial Plastics and Basic Vocational Automotives.

The areas being stressed in Home Economics were things such as career education in all skill areas, consumerism, and human relations.

In the Industrial Arts Department the main area stressed was all basics in the automotive program.

The objectives were to educate the student in the field of industry, and to examine the promises and problems of technology as related to man and his environment.

The clubs active in these departments were FHA, HERO, VICA, and ICE.

Music, art increase aestheticism

Alhambra's Music and Art Departments were useful in helping students develop skills to express ideas visually and to relate themselves to the ongoing society.

The objectives of the Music Department were to involve more students in the music program. Beginning Piano, was a new course added to the curriculum this year.

The Art Department introduced a few innovations. The first one was a new walk through gallery opened to exhibit student art work. The second was that students from Advanced Art Studio would have a show at the end of each semester.

In both Art and Music classes individual creativity was encouraged.

Donna Collins and two other art students work on their wood carvings in Mr. Bridgeman's sixth hour advanced crafts class. The students discover unknown talent in class.

One of Alhambra's talented band members plays "The Work Song March" on his French horn in the quad during a lunch hour pep assembly.

Alhambra mourns loss of dedicated teacher

Students, faculty, and administration of Alhambra felt a deep sense of loss over the death of Mr. Harley King, Business Dept. Chairman, on Nov. 9, 1972.

Mr. King could honestly be described as an outstanding, dedicated educator, inexhaustive leader and an understanding, unselfish friend.

He felt DECA and COE were a vital part of the students education, and attended as many of their functions as he could and supported them in all ways possible.

Mr. King was truly a great man and educator.

Unaware of the camera, Kathy LeFevre tackles an assignment during 7th hour office typing.

Business machines is a very useful class for the upcoming working years. Concentration is very important and must be applied together with skill to be successful on the machines. Sherri Patterson uses her abilities to complete a project on the key punch machine.

Computer Math covers one year

The computer math program is a two semester subject rather than a one semester subject this year.

Students find working with computers a very interesting and knowledgeable experience.

The Math Department tried to increase the holding power of the program so that it would have more 11th and 12th year students in the future.

The teachers tried to help each student develop the fundamental skills of mathematics suitable to his abilities and future plans.

All teachers encouraged students interested in mathematics.

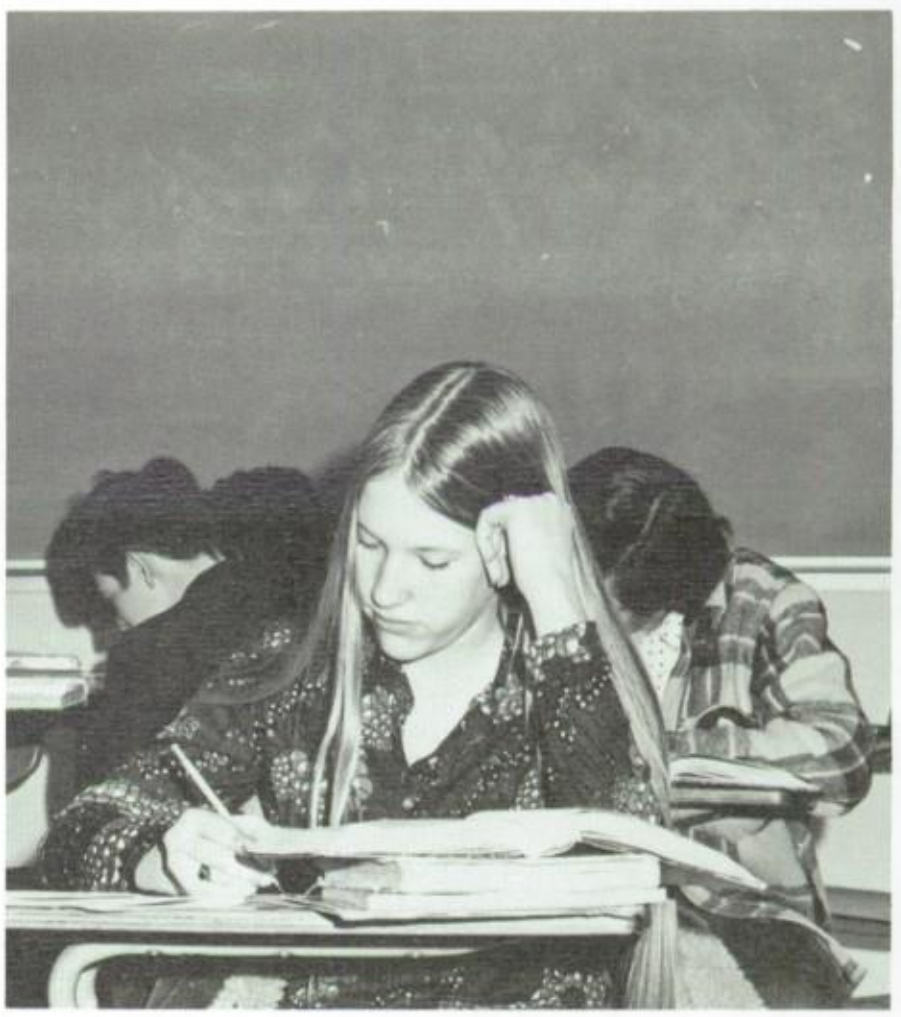
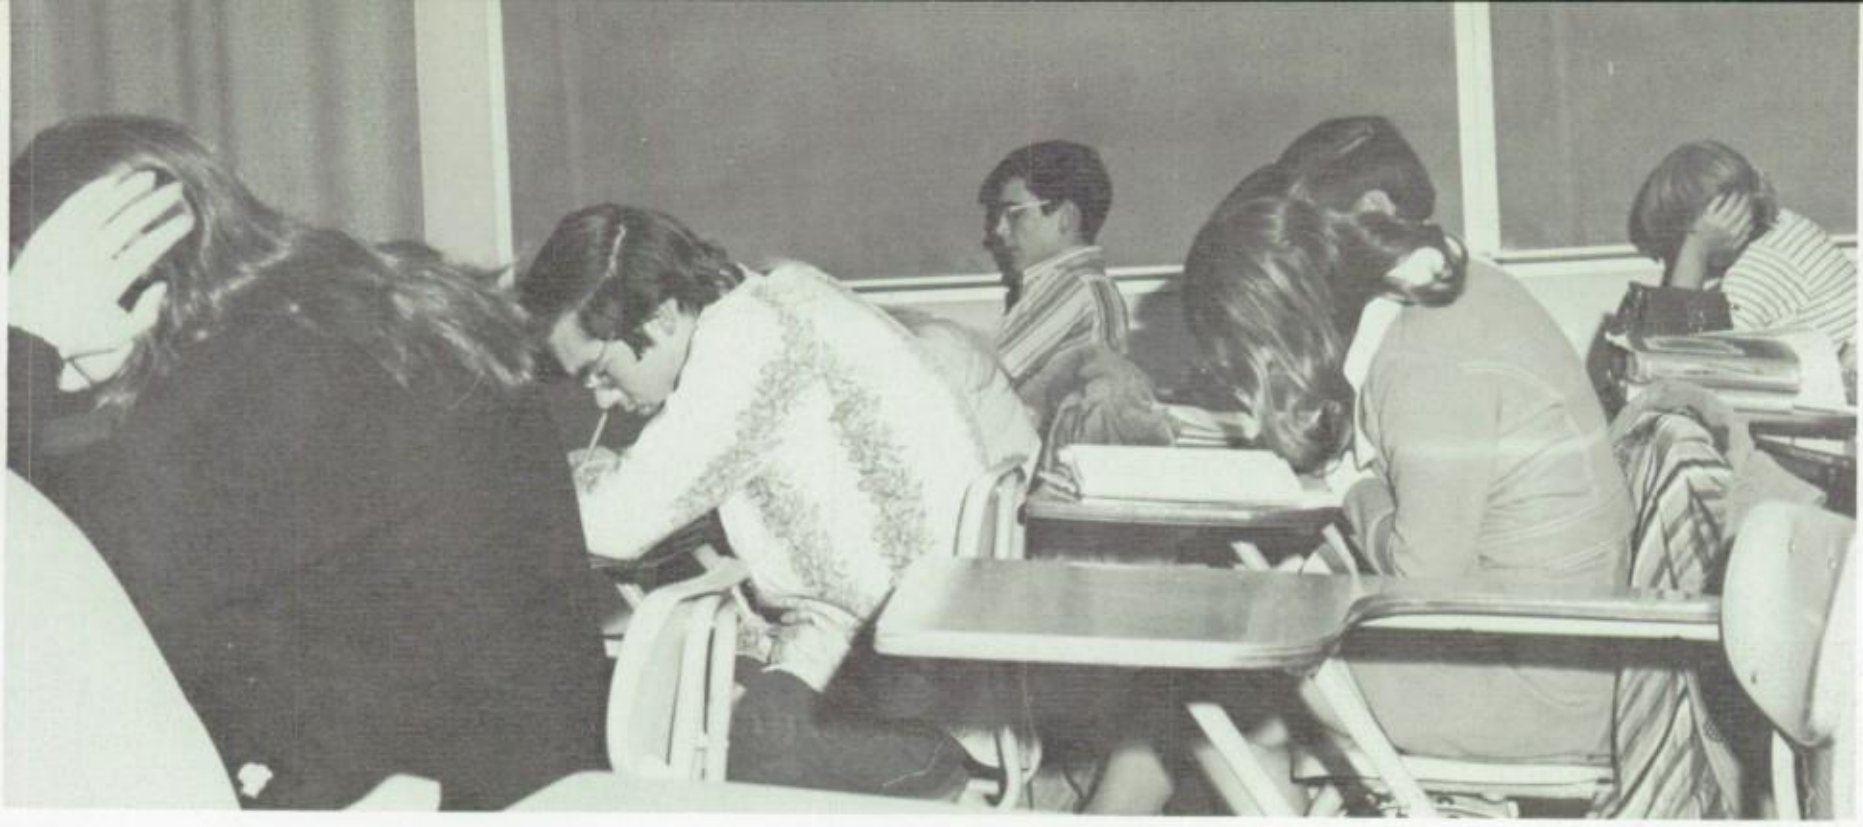
Students appear to be working hard on a geometry test in Mr. Beals' class. Students must have completed Algebra 1-2 to take this class.



During Miss Vollstedt's algebra class a student concentrates on her classroom assignment. Math requires much logical thinking.



Sophomore students from Mr. Beals' fourth hour geometry class prove their intelligence by solving intricate problems from a worksheet.

Solving geometry problems requires the memorization of many algebraic formulas and other such related things.

Enterprise test baffles students

Added to the Social Studies Department this year as a state requirement was a course named Free Enterprise. Students could elect to take the class or pass a free enterprise test that would give them one semester credit for the course.

One of the other two classes students could elect was Science and Society. This was the first time the Social Studies and Science departments combined a class. The purpose of this class was to teach students how they could improve the society and environment.

The third new class was Anthropology. The purpose of this class was for each student to trace his ancestors. In this elective students learned how civilizations have varied. Students learned more about each civilization by observing pottery and ancient ruins.

The main purpose of the Social Studies Department was to involve students in appropriate community activities. Again, this year, the department used inquiry-discovery techniques in all of its programs. Types of methods used by teachers were lectures, demonstrations, discussions and historical analyses.

Miss Friedman and a student from North High School, who is representing the campaign for President Nixon, are taking a break while having their laughs.

Science adds second level biology

Added to the Science Department this year were two new classes. The first was a second level biology class. A prerequisite of sophomore biology is required. The new biology class is similar to sophomore biology, except in depth studies are made and field trips are taken.

The second new course was Science and Society. In this class students study the impact both good and bad that science has made upon the environment.

Each course provided students with knowledge of the changes of the world. It also helped to prepare students to live successfully in their environment.

Students tried to develop an open-minded attitude toward learning and thinking critically.

The Chem-Physics 3-4a class was permitted to go on a field trip to a copper mine. It takes approximately 2½ hours to haul the copper out of the mine by train.

Coed classes combine both boys, girls PE

Many new and interesting ideas were introduced to the Boys P.E. Department this year. Among them was the most obvious one, Co-ed P.E. The boys easily adapted to the new class as well as the girls.

The department's main objectives were to develop and maintain in students a healthy body and mind and have fun while gaining an appreciation for sports.

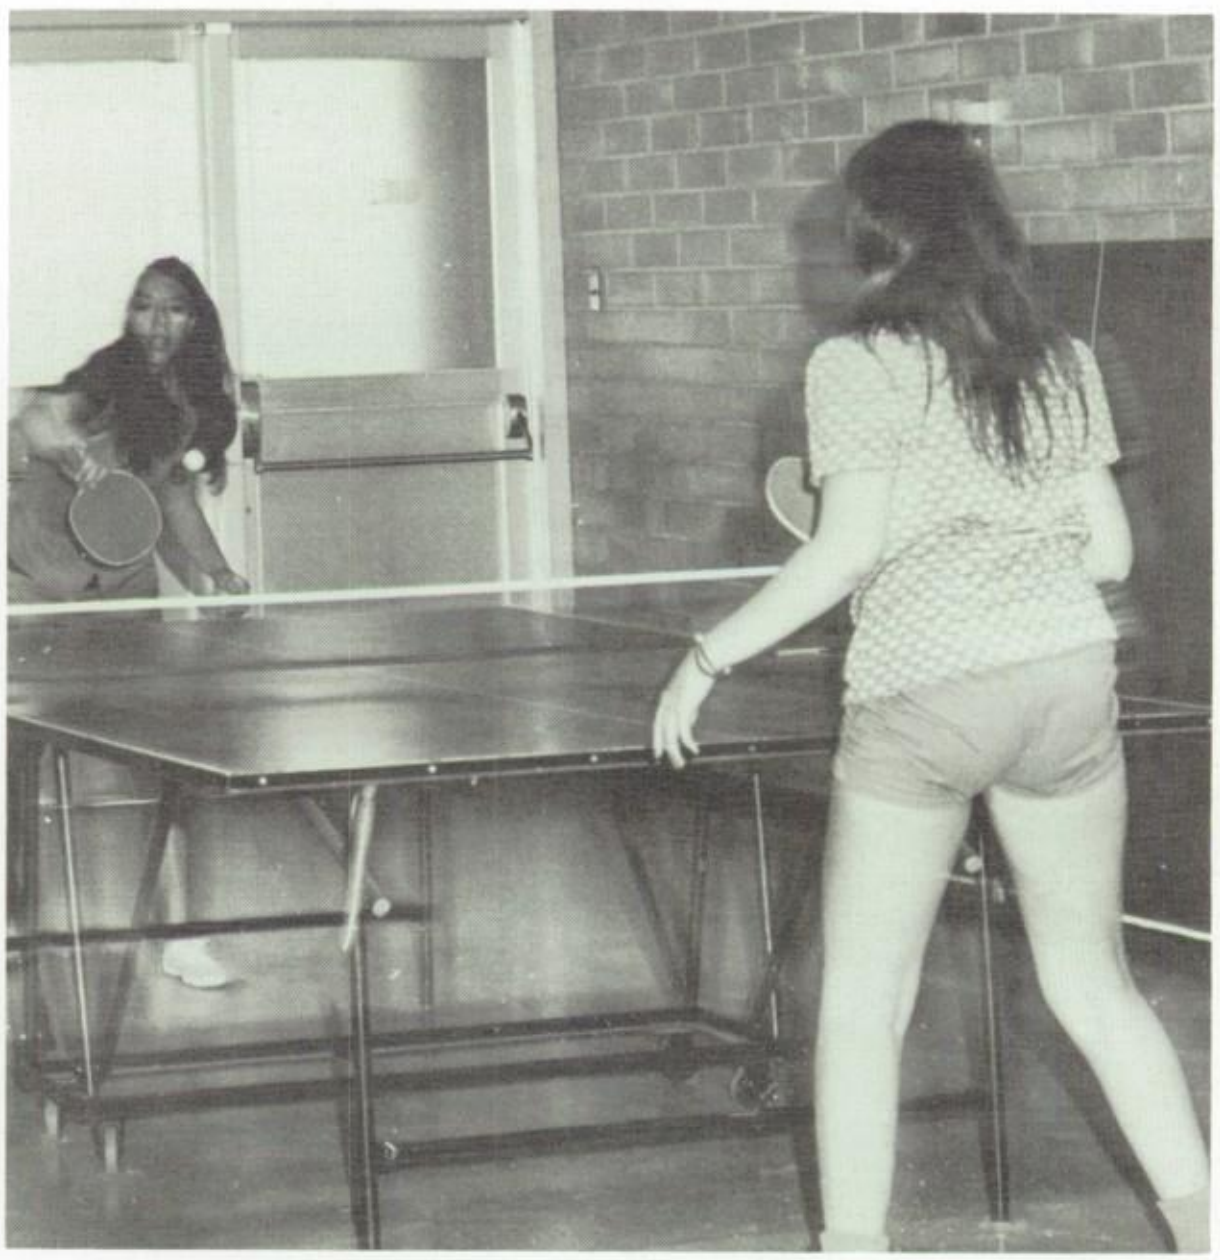
This year Girls' P.E. added four new classes which were Lifetime Sports, Advanced P.E., Self Improvement, and COED P.E.

Advanced P.E. required at least one year of regular P.E. whereas Life-time sports was open to anyone. Self Improvement helped students become more physically fit and COED P.E. was open to both boys and girls.

In Girls' P.E. it was the department's aim to provide every girl with enough background in various activities so that she may use them in her leisure time.

Health Education, required for graduation, exposed the phychological and biological aspects of health ecology to students.

Girls' P.E. spends some of the year indoors playing badminton against each other.



Hitting a ball across the table doesn't sound too interesting but when skill is added it turns into a popular sport called ping-pong. Here two girls display their skills in that sport.

Occupational Ed. beneficial to special students

This was the second year Alhambra has had Occupational Education. The main object of the class is to teach students the necessary skills to get jobs. The program was designed to help students with learning disabilities. Some of the students worked in the school such as in the library, maintenance department, and in the cafeteria. If the students work off campus they get paid for it, but if they work on the campus grounds they don't get paid. The freshmen and sophomores go to their classes while the juniors go a half day and work the rest of the day. Seniors don't go to school but they get full credit for having a full time job.

The program coordinator for Occupational Education is Mrs. Stoloff.

Counselors assist students in educational planning

One of the main goals of the Guidance Department was to help students plan their courses of study. The counselors also helped students choose vocational trade schools and gave advice on available schools to further their education.

Students could also seek advice when they had personal problems. The counselors assisted in improving students' social skills, helping students make decisions on careers, and helping young men and women understand themselves better.

The counselors gave tests to students who wanted to evaluate themselves, handled various scholarships offered by colleges and worked on community services such as Teen Involvement and The Mayor's Youth Advisory Board. The counselors also planned the Freshman Orientation Day, which acquainted the new freshmen with Alhambra.

Visual aids benefit students

Student Services is made up of a variety of services. Each of these services work together to their fullest capacity to meet the needs of the students.

The Audio Visual Department taped various activities, athletic events, assemblies, and other school functions. They also provide films, filmstrips, records, and projectors.

The I.M.C. now has individual study center which allows students to be secluded away from the noise or commotion in the library. The library also has a periodical room with previewing and listening equipment for use with filmstrips, tapes, and records.

Mrs. Fogelsong had the trusting job of running the Health Center. She directs varying jobs from giving bandages to needle and thread.

On the east end of campus centered in the Freshmen Communcation Building, is another library and audio visual department set aside mainly for the teaching and servicing of freshmen.

Congratulations and farewell— Seniors

As the school year slowly comes to an end for the graduating class of '73, there will always be memories of all the friends they have all made within the four years in high school.

The realization that they soon depart from Alhambra High, keeping in mind all the activities they went through, such as the final exams and hard work they have done to try to get all the credits they need to graduate.

But the moment of all is when they receive those pieces of white paper called diplomas, and then saying good-bye.

Juniors debate feasibility of having traditional prom

After three years of double sessions, Alhambra finally returned to single session. This was a new experience for all the classes because students have always been on double sessions.

The class officers, Louie Espinoza, Sharon Nelson, and Sheri Barlow, have lead the class of '74 for all three years.

The Junior class made a homecoming float entitled "The Good Old Days" which placed second in the float competition.

This year the Junior class had to make a big decision about the traditional Junior-Senior prom. A lack of interest in the prom caused the officers to think of an alternative to the prom.

Many suggestions were given, and the final vote was between Big Surf and the prom. A day at Big Surf was the overall choice.

Adrean Schipper, rings her hands in anticipation of the outcome of the football game.

To promote school spirit with the observers of the football games, the cheers made signs through which the players run as they are announced.

Mr. Beltz

The class of '75 had a tremendous year filled with many achievements. The most outstanding accomplishment came from taking first place in the homecoming float competition.

Long awaited class rings were finally ordered at the end of the year by the sophomores. The rings are to be worn by the class as a symbol of unity.

Along with the leadership and help of president Rick Radigan, vice-president Kathy Callahan, and secretary-treasurer Kris Eager, the class made encouraging progress.

Freshmen introduced to school at orientation

The freshmen class of '76 began its first of four exciting years at Alhambra. The class numbers one thousand and twenty, with a new principal starting the year off with it.

Leading the class to a triumphant year were Debbie Oishi, president; Denise Larsen, vice-president; and Patricia Ohton as secretary-treasurer.

One of the many activities of the freshman class was the bake sale which was one of the class's yearly projects. The class will sponsor it throughout its years at Alhambra. This was one of the many fund raising activities the freshmen participated in.

Mr. Haddad and Mrs. Spencer are busily planning the fun activities for their classes.
